Yank Correspondent Killed In Western Java

JAKARTA, April 28—United States officials announced today that the bodies of Robert Doyle, correspondent of Time and Life magazines, and another man have been found in Western Java and both are believed to have been murdered. The second victim first was identified as Raymond Kennedy, Yale university professor.

But American officials said later that while Doyle's body was identified positively, the identity of the other is not certain. He is believed to have been a European.

Jacob Mean, counselor of the U. S. embassy in Jakarta, set out for the scene of the killings near Sumedang.

Villagers reported the two men were shot by a gang of four or five Indonesians.

The villagers reported that the gang waylaid the jeep-type car in which the men were traveling last night on the highway between Bandoeng and Cheribon in the interior.

The men were forced to alight and were taken to a nearby village where they were shot.

Doyle, who was well known in East Asia, arrived in Jakarta from Hong Kong two weeks ago.

The assassins were said to have been dressed in military uniforms.

The villagers stated they were forced to bury the bodies.

Kennedy, a linguist who was expert in Middle East and Oriental languages, was considered an authority on Oriental primitive civilization.

During the war, Kennedy was a professor in the oriental studies department at Yale.

A professor of sociology, Kennedy had been granted a two-year leave of absence from his post in 1949 to study abroad under a Guggenheim Fellowship.

FRANCO LOSES $50 MILLION

Defeat Of Spanish Bill Seen As Boon To Aid Plan

WASHINGTON, April 28—Senate administration leaders interpreted today the 24-to-35 defeat of ECA funds for Franco Spain as a green light for the full Marshall Plan program.

Senate Foreign Relations Chairman Connally, (D) Tex., said the vote—the first in connection with the $3.37 billion foreign aid bill—is "a pretty good pattern" for action on other amendments.

Connally disclosed that State Secretary Acheson will appear before a closed session of his committee Monday to review the troubled world situation.

The Texan said Acheson will discuss the Cold War with the committee in advance of his European trip. Acheson is to attend a London meeting of foreign ministers of Atlantic pact countries early in May.

The secretary's European trip will also be the occasion for a conference of the Western Big Three foreign ministers.

CONNALLY SAID that although American-Soviet relations are tense now than they have been in the last few months, he did not believe war was likely.

He said the shooting down of the U. S. naval plane over the Baltic and the threatened march of Communist youths on Berlin next month, have made the situation worse, but "Russia knows we have the guns" and Moscow is not likely to start a hot war.

Connally said he was hopeful the Senate can get final action on the foreign aid bill by next Thursday. He continued:

"I think the vote (on the Spanish amendment) is a pretty good pattern. I believe there will be some amendments we can beat by a heavier vote."

Senate Republican Floor Leader Wherry of Nebraska said the "stiff vote" will come on the amendment by Sen. Hickenlooper, (R) Iowa, to

Field Now Facing Contempt Rap Before Senate

WASHINGTON, April 28—Counsel for the Senate loyalty investigating committee asked today that Frederick Vanderbilt Field be cited for "contempt" for refusing to answer specific questions in the Communism inquiry.

Edward P. Morgan, chief counsel for the committee, made his request after the wealthy New Yorker declined on grounds of self-incrimination to identify some of his own writings or to say whether he knew persons involved in the Amerasia case.

Field denied under oath that he has "ever been an espionage agent" for Russia or attended a Communist meeting with Owen Lattimore. He flatly refused to say whether he was a member of the Communist Party.

Field, who was named by Ex-Communist Louis Budenz as a Soviet agent, refused to say whether in September, 1945, he had written an article entitled "Avert Civil War in China" for the magazine "Political Affairs."

The witness admitted that he received a salary from the institute of pacific relations and had "made some contributions" to it, but he declared that the institute was not a Communist organization.

Field refused to say whether he was known as "Comrade Spenser," whether he used his home as a "meeting place" for any fund raising campaign for any organization, or whether he ever knew Budenz, Philip Jaffe or Earl Browder.

200 Gotham Cops Out To Quell Pupil Protests

NEW YORK, April 28—More than 200 police and mounted troopers were ordered to New York City Hall today to guard against new turbulent pupil demonstrations demanding higher pay for teachers.

Another force of police was sent to Gracie Mansion, official residence of Mayor William O'Dwyer, and school principals were asked to inform police the moment they learned of marching pupil columns.

The board of education began an investigation into the violent demonstrations officially estimated to have involved 21,000 boys and girls from 21 high schools.

Yesterday, in the third day of the protests at City Hall and in front of various schools, eight teenagers were arrested and one youth and a policeman were injured.

At the same time, teachers organizations denied responsibility for the demonstrations and said they were urging the pupils to stay in school.

Both the United Parents Association and the Public Education Association criticized the mayor and the board of education for their handling of the demonstrations.

The New York Board of Estimate yesterday approved the sum of $6.7 million to provide salary increases of $150 a year for the teaching staffs and $250 for high school teachers appointed before July 1, 1947.

Teachers' organizations are demanding a $600 a year increase. They declared they will continue their cessation of voluntary after-school activities until they get the increase demanded.

U. S. FRIENDSHIP VALUED

Tito Says East-West War Not Considered Probable

BELGRADE, April 28—Marshal Tito rejected today any contention that war between East and West is inevitable.

In the first mass news conference with Western journalists that he has ever held, Tito expressed belief that the basic concept of Communism does not envisage the ultimate necessity of war between Socialist and Capitalist states. Tito said:

"I think there is a mixup over this question of the inevitability of a clash between Capitalist and Socialist societies. Nowhere in Marxism does it state that a clash is inevitable."

The Yugoslav leader said that he foresees a long period of economic cooperation between his country and the United States.

Asked specifically whether he thinks that American policy toward Yugoslavia is based upon long or short term interests, he replied:

"If the intentions are sincere, economic cooperation must be on a long term basis and I believe it is that."

Tito said he can not guarantee for all time that no Soviet satellite nation will attack Yugoslavia, but that he does not consider it likely "at present."

HE SAID ALSO he does not believe that Russia "intends to precipitate war against the United States or Yugoslavia." The Marshal continued:

"Yugoslavia has not yet asked the United States for military aid. I don't expect the United States to offer us arms."

"And I don't believe that Russia wants to risk becoming an aggressor."

Tito urged United Nations' recognition of Communist China. He said:

"Participation of all nations in the UN will do a great deal to reduce the tendency toward war. Participation of any country in the UN imposes a moral responsibility to work for world peace."

The Marshal said that he is opposed to blocs of countries and spheres of influence. He added: "They carry within themselves the danger of war. All powers should submit all disputes to the UN and settle them through that organization."

"It may take a little longer this way, but it is the best safeguard for peace."

"This applies to the Atlantic Pact, too. We are only in the first stage of solving postwar problems and we should seek some other means of peaceful settlement than the creation of blocs and declaring: 'if you don't go my way, I shall use force.'"

TITO REAFFIRMED Yugoslavia's desire to improve relations with Greece and said that as soon as diplomatic relations are made normal, Yugoslavia will be willing to resume rail traffic.

He again said that Yugoslavia is prepared to negotiate with Italy regarding Trieste, but added:

"I consider the Trieste question of no current importance. I think that Count Sforza (Italian foreign minister) is mistaken to offer trade and other economic agreements as the basis for negotiations."

"We will not bargain over the Free Territory of Trieste or use it as a basis for trading."

Ex-Chieftain Would Split UN Makeup

Exclusion Of Reds Being Advocated

WASHINGTON, April 28—President Truman telephoned former President Herbert Hoover last night and congratulated him on his "two worlds" talk and his "call for mobilization of the moral forces of the world."

The White House would not comment in any manner on the suggestions made by Mr. Hoover that the United Nations be reorganized to exclude Soviet Russia and its Communist satellites.

Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said that the talk between the President and the former President dwelt wholly on that portion of Mr. Hoover's New York speech in which he called for mobilization of the moral forces of the world.

Ross said the President told Mr. Hoover that his suggestion "was something he had been promoting for some while."

Hoover's proposal met prompt opposition from the United Nations Secretary Trygve Lie.

Spokesman at the UN said that the former President's suggestion was contrary to official American policy and emphasized "the usefulness" of the world body.

French officials pointed out that they could not discuss Hoover's plan because of the French proposal for a "high Atlantic peace council," but unofficially it was said in Paris that the views of the ex-President indicated a belief that the UN was bankrupt.

THE REPUBLICAN leader, addressing the closing session of the convention of the American Newspaper Publishers in New York, advocated revising the UN to eliminate the "burglar" nation of Russia and its satellites. Then he said:

"If that is impractical then a definite new united front should be organized of those people who disavow Communism, who stand for morals and religion, and who love freedom."

The only living ex-President called for "mobilization" against the "police state and human slavery," and "Red agnosticism."

His speech was frequently interrupted by applause and he received a standing ovation of well over a minute from the assembled editors and publishers.

Treasury Asks Law To Ease Customs Rules

WASHINGTON, April 28—The Treasury moved today to ease customs regulations on a broad front to aid foreign exporters shipping their goods into the United States.

Treasury Secretary Snyder sent to Congress his recommendations for the changes in a new bill—the result of an exhaustive study by the Customs Bureau, the Treasury and other government departments.

The measure is designed to help foreign nations, particularly the Marshall Plan countries, increase their dollar earnings by boosting sales to America. Treasury officials conceded the bill would probably bring loud opposition from some industry groups.

Generally, the bill would simplify and reduce government red tape for foreign shippers.

Duty rates are not changed under the proposals, but the formulas for figuring the tariffs are modified on some commodities. The bill would:

1. Permit Americans to order by mail up to $10 worth of materials from abroad without paying duty or excise tax levies. The exemption now amounts to $1 and the change would affect small articles like perfume and sweaters.

2. Raise from $100 to $250 the amount of goods brought into the U. S. exempted from a complicated series of government import procedures.

Graham has allegedly confessed to setting fire to the Heffner grain elevator near Williamsport on numerous occasions and has been bound to Pickaway County grand jury on that accusation.

The sheriff's office, meanwhile, still is investigating the $50,000 fire which destroyed the Roy Smith dairy barn in Scioto Township early Thursday.

Radcliff said state fire marshal's office experts viewed the rubble Thursday in an effort to determine whether the blaze was set. No report was made directly by the experts.

Anti-Cold Pill Hearing Opens In Washington

WASHINGTON, April 28—The government opened hearings today on its charges that the public is being deceived in the sale of certain widely-advertised anticold tablets across the nation's drug counters.

The Federal Trade Commission has charged that the Bristol-Myers Co. and the Anahist Co. have "falsely-advertised" their products, "Resistab" and "Anahist" as being an effective treatment for the common cold.

At the initial hearing before a trial examiner, the FTC presented testimony in an attempt to prove that these two prescription-free tablets are neither cold remedies nor preventatives and "may be unsafe" and "produce harm" to the purchasing public.

The government presentation of its case is subject to cross-examination by the two firms which will attempt to refute the charges at a later date.

Both companies emphatically deny the charges. Moreover, Bristol-Myers has counter-charged that the FTC complaint was brought about under pressure from unnamed congressmen and organized medical groups.

But the FTC ordered the firm's statements stricken from the record and reserved the "right to take such disciplinary action" against counsel for the company "as may be warranted."

It assured Bristol-Myers that the law guaranteed a "fair and impartial" hearing.

U. S. delegates at the UN emphasized that American policy has been to retain the world body as it is. Deputy U. S. Representative Ernest A. Gross, without referring to Hoover's speech, said in an address.

"In our irritation, let us not forget the usefulness of preserving on a universal basis this common meeting ground. Unless the Russians themselves choose to split the world in two, the UN can provide a valuable forum for maintaining contact between the Soviet states and the rest of the world."

HOOPER in his speech denied any intent toward a military alliance, emphasizing that his plan was one to "redeem" the UN for its original purpose of "moral and spiritual cooperation."

Noting that Russia has broken 35 agreements in the last 12 years, Hoover said that a "phalanx" of free nations could more closely approach a working relationship with Communist world than the United States alone and would lessen the danger of war.

He added, "by collective action we could much more effectively keep conspiring agents and bribers out of all our borders and laboratories."

Airforce Seeks Band Members

Recruits are being sought to fill nearly 150 vacancies in various U. S. Airforce in 17 bases.

Sgt. John J. Sobocinski, Circleville Airforce recruiter stationed in the Veterans of Foreign Wars home Tuesdays and Thursdays, said that 1950 high school graduates wishing to enlist for band duty may contact him.

The sergeant added that a letter of acceptance from an Airforce bandleader will assure enlistees of the initial assignments following 13 weeks of basic training.

Drunk Driver Is Fined $100

Jack Margner, 37, of Columbus, was fined $100 and costs Thursday in the court of Mayor Thurman I. Miller for drunken driving.

Margner was arrested on South Scioto street by Officer George Green.

John Harbert of Jackson also was fined in the court Thursday. Harbert was fined $10 and costs for failing to stop at the intersection of Routes 56 and 159. He was arrested by State Highway Patrolman Charles Watters.

Ships Veering To Avoid Bergs

WASHINGTON, April 28—Ships crossing the North Atlantic this Spring and Summer will have to make the widest oceanic detours in years.

The Navy's hydrographic office said that icebergs from the Newfoundland banks were the worst since 1939. Ships on the North America-North Europe run started veering south to avoid the icebergs in March. They usually avoid the detour until April.

Final Hearing Is Awaited On Rent Controls

WASHINGTON, April 28—The Senate Banking Committee ends its public sessions on rent controls today by hearing witnesses opposed to continuing the law beyond its June 30 expiration date.

Unexpected speed developed, with little questioning of witnesses by senators, and the committee is meeting the deadline it set—a rare feat for a congressional body.

The final witnesses oppose continuation of rent control after June 30.

Among them is the Rev. Wallace J. Murphy of Tulsa, whose appearance last year brought an overflow crowd in the Senate's biggest hearing room and a call for police reinforcements to keep order.

Murphy had made nationwide news by evicting tenants in protest against rent control and had initiated a movement to induce other property owners to follow his example.

Since this year's hearings have lacked the intensity of earlier ones, the committee made no effort to get a larger hearing room today or to ask additional police.

Portsmouth Man Held For Theft In Local Cafe

A 43-year-old Portsmouth man was arrested at 1:30 p. m. Friday for burglarizing Top Hat restaurant.

Police Chief William F. McCrady identified the man as Leonard Lockwell, who reportedly confessed to breaking into the East Main street restaurant at about 5:30 a. m. Friday.

McCrady said the restaurant was entered early Friday by a burglar who knocked out the front door glass, rifled the unlocked cash register and made off with about $30 in cash.

The police were called to the south end Friday afternoon on a report that a man was spending money too freely.

"George Green and I went down to see what was going on," McCrady said. "We arrested Lockwell for investigation and took him to the station."

"When George started to book him, Lockwell said there was no use dragging the thing out and admitted that he broke into the restaurant."

The chief said that almost $30 in change was found in the man's pocket when he was searched.

CAPTAIN GETS ASSIGNMENT

James Dunton Is Named To Office In Fort Dix

Captain James G. Dunton of 210 South Court Street, who recently returned from Japan where he served for three years as general editor of the historical section, Headquarters Eighth Army, has been assigned to the Public Information Office, headquarters 9th Division, Fort Dix, New Jersey.

Upon arrival at his new station, Captain Dunton received a letter of appreciation from Lieutenant General Walton H. Walker, commanding general of the Eighth Army.

Previously he had been awarded the Army Commendation Ribbon for outstanding service in Army public relations.

The Circleville man served as an ambulance driver in France during World War I and re-entered the Army in November 1942. After basic training in the armored training center at Fort Knox, Ky., he attended the Adjutant General Officer Candidate School at Fort Washington, Md., and in August 1943 was assigned to Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri, as a public relations officer.

In March 1946 he went to the Seventh Service Command at Omaha, Neb., as recruiting publicity officer, and three months later moved to the Kansas City Quartermaster Depot as public relations officer. He was assigned to the Far East Command in January 1947.

A 1917 GRADUATE of old Everts high school in Circleville, Dunton entered Harvard in 1919, received the AB degree in 1923 and the master of education in 1928. He has been listed in "Who's Who in America" since 1930, following publication of several books of fiction and an anthology of war stories.

His best known novel, "A Maid and a Million Men," was reprinted in more than a million copies during World War II for distribution among Allied troops.

At the time of his re-entry into the Army in 1942, Dunton was with the Office of Government Reports, executive office of the President, as field representative for Ohio.

Previously he had served as director of publicity and the speakers bureau in Ohio headquarters of the Democratic national committee, and as a special representative of Charles Sawyer of Cincinnati, now secretary of commerce in President Truman's cabinet.

Dunton is the brother of Florence N. Dunton of 210 South Court Street. His wife, the former Dorothy Winfough of 129 West Ohio Street, is with him at Fort Dix. They have quarters at 83 Hulme Street in nearby Mount Holly, N. J.

The jury said: "We feel it is a disgrace to our community that state liquor men must continuously come into our county to apprehend for violations when it is the duty of law enforcement officers of the county."

The jury's report referred to the raids conducted last Friday by state liquor agents. Nineteen persons were arrested on 23 charges of violations. The jury added:

"We especially censure the sheriff in being so lax as to appoint a man a special deputy when it was common knowledge that this man was the operator of a bootlegging establishment."

I-Arm Bandits Given 'Stay'

COLUMBUS, April 28—Two hundred slot machines slated for destruction today will be safe for a little while longer.

A "stay of execution" came yesterday from the state liquor board. Oscar L. Fleckner, state liquor director, was asked to secure a list of the machines before he opened them and later had them destroyed. The slots will be safe until the list is secured.

$70 Million Ford Contract Let

CLEVELAND, April 28—A contract to build foundations and substructure for the Ford Motor Company's $70 million engine plant in suburban Brook Park Village has been awarded the Hunkin-Conkey Construction Co. of Cleveland.

Three million dollars worth of work, scheduled to get underway Monday, is called for in the first portion of the contract.

Catholic Church Seeks Pact With Polish Commies

VATICAN CITY, April 28—Vatican authorities indicated today that there is a possibility of achieving a temporary agreement between the Roman Catholic church and Communist-dominated Poland.

The primate of Poland, Adam Stefan Cardinal Sapieha, has supplied information on a visit to Rome which leads to this belief.

Cardinal Sapieha is the only high Catholic clergyman from Communist-controlled Eastern Europe who has been permitted to journey to Rome for Holy Year observances.

Recently he conferred with Pope Pius XII for an hour in the pontiff's library where he reported in detail on the religious situation in Poland.

The cardinal has acknowledged that two Polish bishops have been authorized to discuss details of an agreement with the Polish government.

Aussie Reds Defy Ruling

MELBOURNE, April 28—Richard Dixon, president of the Australian Communist Party, declared today that the Communists will continue to function in the commonwealth "despite legislation" against them.

Dixon's statement was made in reply to the action of Prime Minister Robert Gordon Menzies in introducing a bill in parliament yesterday which would outlaw the Communist Party. Dixon asserted that the Communists have plans to meet whatever situation might arise.

City Auditor Probe Asked

COLUMBUS, April 28—Franklin County Prosecutor Ralph J. Bartlett has been asked to investigate reported "illegal expenditures" approved by the Columbus city auditor.

George Ketterer of the county committee urged the investigation in a letter yesterday. He called on Bartlett to "seek cooperation of... the attorney general... if you are not empowered to act."

Westinghouse Votes Down UE

WASHINGTON, April 28—Employees of Westinghouse Electric decided today by more than a three-to-one vote that they wanted the CIO, and not its divorced United Electrical Workers, to represent them.

The United Electrical Workers were expelled from the CIO convention for Communist sympathies.

Because of the number of units involved, UE will still represent some Westinghouse workers. The National Labor Relations Board election, tabulated early today, gives representation for 41,155 employees to the CIO International Union of Electrical Workers and 12,189 to the UE.

Czechs Receive U.S. Message

LONDON, April 28—The Czechoslovak government announced today it has received a 1,000-word note from the United States rejecting as "baseless" charges that Czech citizens were ill treated by American Army personnel in Germany last March.

The incident was alleged to have occurred when three plane loads of Czechs landed March 24 at Erding airport near Munich.

The planes, with a total of 84 persons aboard, had been commandeered in flight over Czechoslovakia and landed at Erding where 27 of the Czechs were selected to become exiles.

Lone Constable Raids Large Numbers House

COLUMBUS, April 28—"Sorry, no business today," is the answer to telephone calls from persons who want to make numbers bets.

That was the reply Mifflin Township Constable Kenneth J. Runyon made shortly after he conducted a one-man raid on what officials tagged one of Ohio's major numbers houses.

Miss Marie Baldassarro, 25, and James W. Bishop, 26, both of Columbus, are free on $1,000 bonds today as a result of the raid. They are to appear for trial Saturday in a justice of the peace court. Both pleaded innocent to numbers charges yesterday.

Runyon said he became suspicious of Behind The Moon Bar-B-Que restaurant and entered yesterday afternoon in plain clothes. He made the two arrests and confiscated hundreds of "numbers" books and "pay-off slips."

During the scurry of the arrests, several telephone calls came in. The callers wanted to make numbers bets. "No business today" was the answer from the constable.

Half Of Corn Under Support?

WASHINGTON, April 28—Agriculture officials predict that by June probably half of the nation's corn will be under price support.

The Agriculture Department says that corn now in government hands, plus corn pledged to the government under price support amounts to about 800 million bushels. That's 40 percent of the supply.

Last year at this time only 16 percent of the supply—or 300 million bushels—was under price support programs.

The department reports that on April 1 the total corn on hand was slightly more than two billion bushels.

Farmers have until May 31 to put 1949 corn under price support. They put 315 million bushels under price support by March 31.

AMOS TEACHES ABOUT WORSHIP

SINCERITY AND PURITY WANTED BY JEHOVAH

Scripture—Amos 4:4; 5:4-9, 14, 15, 21-24.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
HOW MANY of the millions of people who go to church regularly and kneel to pray, repeating the words of the service, are thinking about what they are doing? How many are thinking of the business, their domestic problems, their social affairs, while they repeat, parrot-like, the sacred words, or pray to their Maker?

Many are sincere and devout, of course, but many are not. They simply go through the forms decreed by their religious service with their minds on other things.

There are even those who attend religious services regularly, serve on the boards or other governing bodies of their churches, seemingly deeply religious persons; but who, in their daily lives are anything but righteous.

So it was in the time of Amos, who left his flocks and trees to warn the people of Israel that they were on their way to doom unless they altered their manner of living and worshipping.

These lessons on the prophet are rather difficult for little children. The teacher must try to adapt the ideas contained in them to the children's own lives—at home, in school, Sunday school or on the playground.

In his fourth chapter Amos compares the people of Israel—especially the women—to sleek, well-fed cattle who roamed the pastures near the Sea of Galilee. Women have such tremendous influence over the lives of the people of their countries. If they are coarse, with loose moral standards, thinking only of themselves and their pleasures, never of the poor or the sorrowing, how can that country's standards be very high?

Amos pictures how faithfully the people went to Bethel, Gilgal and Beersheba—places of sacred associations—on pilgrimages. They offered sacrifices, paid their tithes, but even in doing these things they did not strictly obey the spirit of their religion.

Terrible calamities had befallen this people—famine, drought, blight, pestilence, war—but at this moment of prosperity they forgot that punishment might again overtake them, and proceeded to live as they pleased, forgetful of the wrath of Jehovah.

"For thus saith Jehovah unto the house of Israel, Seek ye Me, and ye shall live; but seek not Bethel, nor enter into Gilgal, and pass not to Beersheba; for Gilgal shall surely go into captivity, and Bethel shall come to naught."

"Seek Jehovah, and ye shall live; lest He break out like fire in the house of Joseph, and it devour, and there be none to quench it in Bethel. Ye who turn justice to wormwood, and cast down righteousness to the earth."

Amos reminded them of their righteous God, in beautiful, poetic words:

"Seek Him that maketh the Pleiades and Orion, and turneth the shadow of death into the morning, and maketh the day dark with night; that calleth for the waters of the sea, and poureth them out upon the face of the earth; Jehovah is His name."

The prophets of old spoke in no uncertain terms of what the Lord required of His people, and all agreed that God wanted sincerity in worship, and right living, and these only were what pleased Him. Amos quotes Him:

"I hate, I despise your feasts, and I will take no delight in your solemn assemblies (the feasts and pilgrimages)."

"Yea, though ye offer Me your burnt-offerings, and meal-offerings, I will not accept them; neither will I regard the peace-offerings of your hearts. Take thou away from Me the noise of thy songs; for I will not hear the melody of thy viols."

"But let justice roll down as waters, and righteousness as a mighty stream."

These words were uttered between 760 and 770 B. C., and still justice is not being done in the earth, and people cry aloud for it, praying that fear, hunger, destitution of all kinds be banished from the earth. God the Father will help us to accomplish it if only we will hear Him and do our part.

Hundreds of irreplaceable books, casualties in the Monte Cassino monastery destroyed during the Italian campaign of World War II, are being restored at the Institute of Book Pathology in Rome. The institute's prize "patient" was the sixth century hand-written parchment Code of the Roman Emperor Justinian, which faded almost to illegibility until treated with special chemicals.

Church Briefs

The Rev. Paul Brown will be guest pastor Sunday in Pontius, Ringgold and Morris churches in the Pickaway EUB charge.

Youth Fellowships of the Kingston Methodist charge are to meet Sunday afternoon and evening in Athens for a district rally.

A new Hammond organ will be dedicated Sunday in the Kingston Methodist church. The new instrument is a memorial purchased for the church by Mrs. Lorena Bookwalter of Kingston in memory of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Warren. The dedicatory service will begin at 11 a. m. with a sermon by Dr. George Wilson, Chillicothe district superintendent. Organ selections will be played by Betty Bethel of Chillicothe.

Fatima Says Rights Returned

PARIS, April 28 — Princess Fatima of Iran announced on her arrival in Paris that her brother, Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi, has restored her royal rights on promise she will wed her American husband in a Moslem ritual.

The princess and Vincent Hillier, married recently in an Italian ceremony, came to Paris by train and announced that they will marry according to the Moslem rite in Paris "within a few days."

Princess Fatima said that her brother in an angry telegram previously withdrew her royal rights and "disowned" her because she had married without permission.

AMOS TEACHES ABOUT WORSHIP

SINCERITY AND PURITY WANTED BY JEHOVAH

Scripture—Amos 4:4; 5:4-9, 14, 15, 21-24.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

HOW MANY of the millions of people who go to church regularly and kneel to pray, repeating the words of the service, are thinking about what they are doing? How many are thinking of their business, their domestic problems, their social affairs, while they repeat, parrot-like, the sacred words, or pray to their Maker?

Many are sincere and devout, of course, but many are not. They simply go through the forms decreed by their religious service with their minds on other things.

There are even those who attend religious services regularly, serve on the boards or other governing bodies of their churches, seemingly deeply religious persons; but who, in their daily lives are anything but righteous.

So it was in the time of Amos, who left his flocks and trees to warn the people of Israel that they were on their way to doom unless they altered their manner of living and worshiping.

These lessons on the prophet are rather difficult for little children. The teacher must try to adapt the ideas contained in them to the children's own lives—at home, in school, Sunday school or on the playground.

In his fourth chapter Amos compares the people of Israel—especially the women—to sleek, well-fed cattle who roamed the pastures near the Sea of Galilee. Women have such tremendous influence over the lives of the people of their countries. If they are coarse, with loose moral standards, thinking only of themselves and their pleasures, never of the poor or the sorrowing, how can that country's standards be very high?

Amos pictures how faithfully the people went to Bethel, Gilgal and Beersheba—places of sacred associations—on pilgrimages. They offered sacrifices, paid their tithes, but even in doing these things they did not strictly obey the spirit of their religion.

Terrible calamities had befallen this people—famine, drought, blight, pestilence, war—but at this moment of prosperity they forgot that punishment might again overtake them, and proceeded to live as they pleased, forgetful of the wrath of Jehovah.

"For thus saith Jehovah unto the house of Israel, Seek ye Me, and ye shall live; but seek not Bethel, nor enter into Gilgal, and pass not to Beersheba; for Gilgal shall surely go into captivity, and Bethel shall come to naught."

"Seek Jehovah, and ye shall live; lest He break out like fire in the house of Joseph, and it devour, and there be none to quench it in Bethel. Ye who turn justice to wormwood, and cast down righteousness to the earth."

Amos reminded them of their righteous God, in beautiful, poetic words:

"Seek Him that maketh the Pleiades and Orion, and turneth the shadow of death into the morning, and maketh the day dark with night; that calleth for the waters of the sea, and poureth them out upon the face of the earth; Jehovah is His name."

The prophets of old spoke in no uncertain terms of what the Lord required of His people, and all agreed that God wanted sincerity in worship, and right living, and these only were what pleased Him. Amos quotes Him:

"I hate, I despise your feasts, and I will take no delight in your solemn assemblies (the feasts and pilgrimages)."

"Yea, though ye offer Me your burnt-offerings, and meal-offerings, I will not accept them; neither will I regard the peace-offerings of your hearts. Take thou away from Me the noise of thy songs; for I will not hear the melody of thy viols."

"But let justice roll down as waters, and righteousness as a mighty stream."

These words were uttered between 760 and 770 B. C., and still justice is not being done in the earth, and people cry aloud for it, praying that fear, hunger, destitution of all kinds be banished from the earth. God the Father will help us to accomplish it if only we will hear Him and do our part.

Hundreds of irreplaceable books, casualties in the Monte Cassino monastery destroyed during the Italian campaign of World War II, are being restored at the Institute of Book Pathology in Rome. The institute's prize "patient" was the sixth century hand-written parchment Code of the Roman Emperor Justinian, which faded almost to illegibility until treated with special chemicals.

Church Briefs

The Rev. Paul Brown will be guest pastor Sunday in Pontius, Ringgold and Morris churches in the Pickaway EUB charge.

Youth Fellowships of the Kingston Methodist charge are to meet Sunday afternoon and evening in Athens for a district rally.

A new Hammond organ will be dedicated Sunday in the Kingston Methodist church. The new instrument is a memorial purchased for the church by Mrs. Lorena Bookwalter of Kingston in memory of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Warren. The dedicatory service will begin at 11 a. m. with a sermon by Dr. George Wilson, Chillicothe district superintendent. Organ selections will be played by Betty Bethel of Chillicothe.

Fatima Says Rights Returned

PARIS, April 28 — Princess Fatima of Iran announced on her arrival in Paris that her brother, Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi, has restored her royal rights on promise she will wed her American husband in a Moslem ritual.

The princess and Vincent Hilmy, married recently in an Italian ceremony, came to Paris by train and announced that they will marry according to the Moslem rite in Paris "within a few days."

Princess Fatima said that her brother in an angry telegram previously withdrew her royal rights and "disowned" her because she had married without permission.

Man's Trade Detected By Marks On His Teeth

CHICAGO, April 28—An industrial health specialist said today that a man's trade—be he an upholsterer, glass blower or tailor—leaves tell-tale markings on his teeth.

Dr. Carey P. McCord of Detroit said in a paper prepared for delivery at the annual meeting of the American Association of Industrial Dentists that a man's occupation leaves a mark on some portion of his body.

McCord said:

"Some synthetic rubber workers may lose the hair on their head; workers in arsenic may grow enormous callouses on their feet."

However, he added, the most readily identifiable markings are those left on the teeth. McCord told the industrial dentists, holding their meeting in conjunction with the Association of Industrial Physicians and Surgeons, that he calls these clues "stigmata."

A worker in upholstery who carries tacks in his teeth develops spaces between his teeth where the tacks repose so that in time his teeth resemble a hacksaw, McCord said.

Glass blowers, he said, develop even, round holes—smaller than a dime—in their four front teeth, that is, in the area where the two top front teeth meet the two bottom front teeth.

"The bristle brush biter," added McCord, "and the seamstress thread biter usually devote only two teeth to their work and thus introduce their trades to the dentist."

He observed that men who play the bugle and cornet develop "labial corns."

Cultists May Get Itching Powder

NELSON, B. C., April 28—Provincial police believe they know how they can make the Doukhobors keep their clothes on.

Several cartons of itching powder reportedly reached Nelson for police use.

Officers used itching powder on members of the religious sect several years ago and reported marked success.

By sprinkling the powder on some of the nude cultists, the authorities persuaded many of the others to put their clothes back on in order to avoid the same fate.

The Doukhobors strip and stage naked parades in protest against actions they dislike. They are descendants of refugees from Russia who settled in colonies in western British Columbia.

Pupils Demand Teacher Hikes

NEW YORK, April 28—More than 1,000 public high school pupils took part in a wild, howling demonstration outside New York's City Hall yesterday, demanding pay increases of $600 to $1,200 a year for their teachers.

Youngsters of at least 11 high schools staged demonstrations in various parts of New York City.

Soaking wet from the rain, hatless boys and girls tried to storm City Hall steps until police forced them back by erecting barricades of benches.

Samson Gang To Get Haircuts

COLUMBUS, April 28—Four members of the "Samson" burglary gang will get haircuts—the Ohio Penitentiary kind.

Sentenced for the many Ohio burglaries which involved cracking the toughest of safes was Fred Grambo, 33, Columbus, identified as the ringleader.

Grambo was sentenced to serve from three to 45 years in prison. Charles Marchand, 21, Columbus, was sentenced to serve from two to 30 years; Daniel R. Charles, 21, two to 30 years, and William Cuckler, 39, one to 15.

Since the Middle Ages, farmers in Europe have raised fish in ponds on their land for food and fertilizer.

Swimming Pool Being Talked Here

Chamber Commerce Calling Meeting

Circleville may have a swimming pool in the near future.

Circleville Chamber of Commerce this week announced that it hopes to make a swimming pool construction project its outstanding project of the year.

Chamber members claimed that several years ago one prominent Circleville native stated he would contribute a large sum of money toward the construction of a pool in Circleville.

Several other persons also have stated they wish to contribute for a pool project.

A committee of four Chamber members was appointed this week to investigate the possibilities of constructing a pool here, along with attempting to create interest in the project.

Chamber members were told that Washington C. H. recently completed a swimming pool for $60,000, raising a portion of the money through memberships.

THE LOCAL chamber discussed the probability that a pool can be constructed here and cited Ted Lewis Park as their first choice of sites. Pickaway County Fairgrounds also was considered.

Lass Poses As Her Sister

SHADYSIDE, April 28—A 17-year-old Shadyside girl faces a charge of perjury today for allegedly obtaining a marriage license for her 14-year-old sister.

The girl, Mae Louise Hoops, is accused of posing as her sister,

Anna Marie, in seeking a license to wed George August Jr., a 32-year-old coal miner. Before the marriage could take place, the two girls were turned over to juvenile authorities and the mother, Mrs. Letha Hoops, was charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Pupils Demand Teacher Hikes

NEW YORK, April 28—More than 1,000 public high school pupils took part in a wild, howling demonstration outside New York's City Hall yesterday, demanding pay increases of $600 to $1,200 a year for their teachers.

Youngsters of at least 11 high schools staged demonstrations in various parts of New York City.

Soaking wet from the rain, hatless boys and girls tried to storm City Hall steps until police forced them back by erecting barricades of benches.

Samson Gang To Get Haircuts

COLUMBUS, April 28 — Four members of the "Samson" burglary gang will get haircuts—the Ohio Penitentiary kind.

Sentenced for the many Ohio burglaries which involved cracking the toughest of safes was Fred Grambo, 33, Columbus, identified as the ringleader.

Grambo was sentenced to serve from three to 45 years in prison. Charles Marchand, 21, Columbus, was sentenced to serve from two to 30 years; Daniel R. Charles, 21, two to 30 years, and William Cuckler, 39, one to 15.

Since the Middle Ages, farmers in Europe have raised fish in ponds on their land for food and fertilizer.

Swimming Pool Being Talked Here

Chamber Commerce Calling Meeting

Circleville may have a swimming pool in the near future.

Circleville Chamber of Commerce this week announced that it hopes to make a swimming pool construction project its outstanding project of the year.

Chamber members claimed that several years ago one prominent Circleville native stated he would contribute a large sum of money toward the construction of a pool in Circleville.

Several other persons also have stated they wish to contribute for a pool project.

A committee of four Chamber members was appointed this week to investigate the possibilities of constructing a pool here, along with attempting to create interest in the project.

Chamber members were told that Washington C. H. recently completed a swimming pool for $60,000, raising a portion of the money through memberships.

THE LOCAL chamber discussed the probability that a pool can be constructed here and cited Ted Lewis Park as their first choice of sites. Pickaway County Fairgrounds also was considered.

Lass Poses As Her Sister

SHADYSIDE, April 28 — A 17-year-old Shadyside girl faces a charge of perjury today for allegedly obtaining a marriage license for her 14-year-old sister.

The girl, Mae Louise Hoops, is accused of posing as her sister,

Anna Marie, in seeking a license to wed George August Jr., a 32-year-old coal miner. Before the marriage could take place, the two girls were turned over to juvenile authorities and the mother, Mrs. Letha Hoops, was charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Elinor Williams'

Teen Tips

"There comes a time in every girl's life" when she wants to make the first date with a new boy so smooth—so much fun—that he'll want to date her again... and again. How? According to what we hear from high school boys, this will help:

1. Be ready when your friend comes to call for you. The date gets off to a better start without a long delay at the beginning.

2. Be considerate of his allowance if you suggest where to go or order something to eat. Getting as much out of your date as possible is selfish... and evenings that are too expensive will frighten him off.

3. Avoid anything that makes you conspicuous such as laughing or talking too loudly. It might embarrass him.

4. Be natural. Don't try to be sophisticated or bored to impress him with the fact that you've had other dates. Enjoy the fun and try to show that you're having a good time.

5. Don't talk too much or be too silent. Keep the conversation going comfortably, but give him a chance to talk... about himself, his pet pastimes, ambitions, etc.

6. Don't flirt with others. If you're bored with your date, try not to show it... simply refuse another date with him... and you can always make an excuse about getting home early.

7. Avoid being possessive. One date—or several—doesn't prove you're "going steady" or engaged. Let him do the pursuing, not you.

Court Denies Judge Change

COLUMBUS, April 28 — The Ohio supreme court has refused to order its own chief justice to remove a judge in a Lawrence County gambling case.

The full court denied a writ of mandamus to James Robison, one of nine defendants cited on gambling charges which followed a raid last Dec. 20 by state liquor agents on the Colony Club, near Chesapeake.

Robison asked the court to order Chief Justice Carl V. Weygandt to remove Judge James Collier from the Lawrence County common pleas court bench when the case is tried.

LABOR TRUCE PERIODS

THE eleventh hour truce agreements in the railroad and telephone labor disputes were hailed with gladness. The new telephone strike delay appeared at the end of a previous truce, to change the picture just when it seemed that the earlier delay had accomplished nothing. These events give rise to a public hope that there is a growing supply of patience and real desire for agreements in the labor scene generally.

How much better it is to take a little more time to try to work out a peaceful settlement than to accept a strike which would only mean losses for all concerned. It begins to appear that these truce periods can help to produce satisfactory compromises, and to prevent the damage done by strikes.

The public is bound to be grateful for truces which postpone strikes, and to go on putting hope in them. A strike is a little bit like a tooth extraction; the patient, at least, wants to put it off as long as possible. Unfortunately the analogy ends there. The pulling of the tooth is a sure cure for an ache in it, but a strike often fails to solve the problem which caused it. There is mounting reason to suspect that the underlying cause of recurrent strikes is not to be found in the issues of wages, hours and working conditions, but in a chronic desire on both sides of the dispute to gain more than is given in the arbitration of an issue.

Strangely enough it is possible for both sides to gain more than is given in labor arbitration. But that is possible only before a strike; once a strike has started, it is certain that both sides will lose more than they gain. Those industries and concerns which have found ways to operate for long periods without strikes know that this is true. Both management and workers have gained by arrangements which settle differences before they reach the strike stage.

INDIA GOES DRY

PROHIBITION was not killed by its lack of success in the United States. It has been established in India, but only for the natives. Foreigners may get licenses for buying liquor, under the theory that they could not stand the climate otherwise.

Even the driest of American states hardly equals the rigidity of the prohibitory law in some of the provinces of India. In Bombay it is an offense to keep more than two bottles at home. In Madras all possession is forbidden, and hotels refuse to serve soda water and lime juice in rooms for fear that the guests might mix their own drinks and thus make trouble for the management.

Prohibition remained in our Constitution for thirteen years, lasting so long partly because of the difficulty in getting a repeal amendment through. No comparable legal obstacle exists in India. It will be interesting to see how long the experiment lasts.

At least the New York water shortage won't dry up the yachting season.

Russians May Possess More Warplanes Than U.S., but— Believe Red Aircraft Doesn't Excel United States Planes

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Top intelligence agencies are convinced that States in terms of mass.

The intelligence people, plus high American air generals, do not, however, believe that the Soviets have excelled United States warplanes in efficiency. Nor do they believe that the Russian airman and his leaders can top the American flyer in ability.

The Air Force and the Navy are operating about 15,000 planes. It is believed Russia has about 25,000. Many of the United States planes will be obsolescent within two years, but even then they will probably be as good as the bulk of the Soviet aircraft.

American strategists believe they have the edge in their new, secret designs.

RED PLANES IN CHINA?—The Kremlin talks between Stalin and Red China's Gen. Mao Tse-tung may have effectively sealed the fate of Nationalist China.

Although no announcement was made after the talks as to what Chinese Communists would get from Russia in the way of military assistance, the answer has not been long in coming.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

In recent months, we have been moving into a pair of hysterias. One is the war hysteria, which is very bad indeed. This started when it was discovered that Klaus Fuchs had been stealing our atomic secrets since 1942 and we did not know it. The other is the hysteria of distrust arising out of the Hiss trials. While we should ferret out every traitor and spy, there is no need to get hysterical about it. Actually, it should be an ordinary police job.

About all this, the question arises: Why should there be a loyalty program? Why should there be a need for a loyalty program? Why should there even be a suspicion that American officials might be disloyal? Is it not shocking that this country should feel called upon to appoint a loyalty board to investigate its own employees?

In the mesh of accusation and defense, is that not really the question that should be asked? For what has happened to us, to our children, that loyalty is not taken for granted, and correctly taken for granted?

President Truman made a speech on the loyalty program which he instituted three years ago. Then he repeated, three years ago! When he instituted that program, did he ask himself or his advisers: What corrupting virus has eaten into the hearts of our people that their government needs to worry about the loyalty of those employed in the government? His institution of that program was a tacit admission of its need.

The President appealed to the people to notify the FBI or the Department of Justice if they have evidence of disloyalty. Well, Whittaker Chambers in 1939 brought his case to the office of the President of the United States when he spoke to Marvin McIntyre, who relayed him to Adolf A. Berle Jr. From 1939 to 1948, that story lay dormant. Then the House Committee on Un-American Activities revived it. Were it not for Congressman Nixon of California, nothing would have come of the Chambers charges against Hiss. Nixon pushed that one and deserves the credit for it.

The President himself called the Hiss case a "red herring." Chambers was violently abused. Nixon persisted. Finally, when the pumpkin papers came on the scene, the Department of Justice prosecuted Hiss and won a verdict.

But it took nearly 10 years after the first charges for the case to be brought. Similarly the "Amerasia" case has been dormant from 1945 to today when it is being reopened by a congressional committee.

The spying thief, Arthur Adams, ran about this country, trailed by the FBI and newspaper reporters. He was almost an open spy, so many persons were trailing him and trailing his trailers.

But Arthur Adams got away. I can mention other cases, but you must be as weary of the repetition as I am. What I ask is a fundamental question that must some day be answered: How did it happen?

EATING UP SURPLUS

REPORTS indicate that progress is being made in the government's plan to put some of its stored surplus foodstuffs, purchased in the agricultural price support program, into the larders of relief families and institutions. Any inclination to regard this government food as "free" should be discouraged; on the contrary it will be expensive food by the time it gets eaten. But it already has been bought and we must pay the bill, whether it is eaten or not, so it is at least partly satisfying to know that some of it, at least, will be eaten.

Candidates, who are elected, retain their faith in the ability of the people to rule themselves.

Infected Eye Hard to Heal

By HERMAN N. BUNDEN, M.D.

CERTAIN parts of the eyes have much less resistance to infection than other parts. Thus, if an inflammation is set up in the eye, it often proves difficult to handle and responds slowly. If at all, to simple methods of treatment.

One of these is iritis or inflammation of the colored part of the eye. In certain instances, the germs causing this condition can be identified and, in these cases, the infection can sometimes be treated with antibiotic medications. More often, however, it cannot and hence, in the majority of cases, specific treatment cannot be given.

Another such condition is known as sympathetic ophthalmia, a disorder in which a disturbance in one eye will cause severe inflammation of the other.

Typhoid Vaccine
One method of dealing with these conditions involves the injection of typhoid vaccine which produces fever and certain other reactions that seem to help get rid of the eye condition. Recently, it has been suggested that this treatment is much more successful when the injection is given slowly over a long period of time rather than in rapid, long-dose injection.

In carrying out this treatment, a small amount of the vaccine is put into a salt solution. The patient lies down and the mixture is allowed to flow into a vein at the rate of 20 to 30 drops a minute. The patient's temperature is recorded every 15 minutes.

If the temperature does not begin to rise in from 30 to 45 minutes, the rate of flow is doubled. If, on the other hand, the rise in temperature is too rapid, the rate of flow is decreased. In elderly or weakened patients, the injection is given at a slower rate.

If improvement does occur within 48 hours after treatment, a second injection of the typhoid vaccine is given.

Showed Improvement
Of fourteen patients with iritis treated in this way, eight needed only one course of treatment and, of these, two showed definite improvement within 48 hours. The others required two days to show a similar result.

Two patients with sympathetic ophthalmia were treated. The first patient cleared up within 24 hours, while the second patient required two courses of treatment.

It would appear that with these disorders, the continued administration of typhoid vaccine into a vein is superior to one single injection of the vaccine, since the degree of fever and chilling may be controlled.

N. N.: What is the cause of sweating of the hands?

Answer: Excessive perspiration of the hands may be due to nervousness. Hyperthyroidism, or increased secretion from the thyroid gland, is also a cause of excessive perspiration.

CHAPTER THIRTY-FIVE

WHEN Jenny really woke, Brent and her sisters were no longer at the hospital. She felt better, and responded to her cheerful nurse with something like her old spirit. When Dr. Higbee came to see her, she was almost herself again. "Well," he said, rubbing his hands from the cold, and looking down at her with his twinkling smile, "you had us worried for a while, young lady. But you can bless the elements for a rapid recovery. If you hadn't had a lot of snow to cushion your fall, you'd have had a much worse concussion."

"Is that what it was?" "And still is," he cautioned her. "You're not over it yet, and we'll keep you quiet for a while. And then we'll have to X-ray that leg of yours."

Instantly the dull ache which had permeated her being became focused on her left leg, and she looked down at the counterpane curiously. "Is it broken?" she asked.

"I don't think so, but we'll have some pictures to make sure," he told her. "Still, you have a beautiful set of contusions which will keep you quiet for a while. The young man who was driving the car seemed rather incoherent about it all."

Jenny said, "Ghille went away from me and ran right in front of him. He put on his brakes and skidded. It wasn't his fault at all, and he was going slowly."

Dr. Higbee chuckled. "You'll never collect damages at that rate, Jenny!"

She smiled, too. "No, I don't suppose I will, but it's only fair to tell it the way it happened."

"That's more or less what he said. Poor devil! He got out of the car and tried to pick you up, but Ghille went for him—thought he was trying to injure you some more, I suppose. It was quite a smart move for a while, I understand."

Jenny said suddenly, "When may I go home?" and knew, as soon as she had said it, that she really wanted to go.

"If you're no broken bones, in a couple of days. You'll be there for Christmas, if that's what's worrying you," Dr. Higbee said. "But you'll have to promise to obey orders, and be absolutely quiet for some time. Will you?"

Brent carried her into the house on the day before Christmas. Natalie had come with him, and Diane was waiting at the door to greet her. For a moment, Jenny was too excited to notice the difference in Diane, and when she did, she was dumfounded. Diane was wearing an apron! Not a frilly taffeta one, more decoration than anything else, not a ruffled gypsy one, but a good serviceable percale apron of Jenny's.

They put her in the wing chair, with her left foot on the hassock, and stood around admiring her. "Oh, it's so good to have you back!" Natalie cried, winking back some tears angrily. "You'll never know what a scare you gave us, Jen! We must all be at least ten years older."

Jenny said lightly, "Well, if you've aged ten years, then I've aged twenty. And that gives me a chance to be an older sister—something I've always wanted!"

Diane suddenly sniffed the air and whirled out of the room, crying something about "I hope it isn't burning!" and Jenny looked curiously at Natalie and Brent.

"Is Di cooking something?" she asked incredulously.

"Custards for you," Nat told her. "She saw a couple of trays at the hospital and decided you'd need building up when we got you home."

"But—" Jenny began, when Natalie added, "Mrs. Henlo wanted to make them, but Di seemed to think she ought to make them herself, so don't be surprised if they're black on top and watery underneath."

They were just that, but Jenny did not mind. The very fact that Diane had wanted to cook them for her made them taste twice as good as any custards she had ever eaten before. Diane stayed for dinner that night, and Fred joined them. Afterward, wonder of wonders, he and Diane did the dishes, and Natalie and Brent sat with Jenny in the living room.

"Half an hour, and then you must go to bed," Natalie warned her. "We're going to keep rigidly to Dr. Higbee's schedule." She settled down on a cushion at Jenny's feet. "We have a lot to catch up on," she said abruptly. "I hope you weren't too worried that night when I didn't get home for dinner. I did try to reach you by phone, but the phone service was disrupted where we were celebrating—on account of the snow, I suppose—and I couldn't put the call through."

Jenny closed her eyes, and in that moment of need all her strength returned. She said calmly, "I did worry, of course. But I knew there must be a reason. Where were you, Nat?" Natalie said fiercely, "I'll never do such a thing again, going off without telling what I was going to do! But, oh, Jenny, I was afraid to talk about it—afraid that it might not come off, after all. Brent said it would, but I couldn't quite believe it."

Jenny said, "You met at the City Hall at two-thirty. Perhaps I can guess the rest."

Natalie's dark head was thrown back in surprise, and she stared at her sister with widened eyes.

"However did you know?" "I found Brent's notation in your bedroom when I straightened up that day."

Natalie's hand reached up to clasp hers. "Then you did understand. Oh, I'm so glad! You see, Brent was sure things would go smoothly, he had made all the arrangements, but I didn't actually believe Gary would be there until I saw him with my own eyes. We had planned to be married yesterday, but of course we've put it off now."

"Gary!" It was barely a whisper, but Jenny's heart seemed to be up in her throat, choking off utterance. "Gary?"

"Yes," Natalie had not even noticed her sudden lack of composure, so intent she was on her own story. "He finally came around to seeing my side of it, Jen, but it was Brent who made him see it. He is the most stubborn man!" She said it with real pride. "And if he hadn't had a really substantial raise and a year-end bonus as well, I don't know if even Brent's arguments would have won out. Will you mind if we all live here together, Jen? Some day, we'll have our own house, of course, although I'll still want to work here in the studio. But Brent and I have practically covered the housing situation, and there isn't anything decent that we can afford right now. Will you mind?"

"I'll love having you, Jenny, said with conviction. "Besides, it's partly your house, you know."

Natalie chuckled. "Gary insists on paying rent, and don't argue with him about it, Jenny. You'd never win the argument, and I might lose him again."

Then Jenny said something which had been bothering her. "But why do you want to be married in New York state?" she asked. "Why did you get your license in the city?"

"But we won't be!" Natalie protested. "We didn't! Where did you get that idea? Oh, I know! Brent, it's your fault. You said 'City Hall' instead of 'Town Hall' on that slip of paper you gave me."

"Just a hopelessly metropolitan creature," Brent said mournfully. "But I'm trying to get in tune with small town life. I'd better, if I'm going to live in one for the rest of my life."

That night Jenny slept deeply, with a peace which came from many factors. It was wonderful to be back in her own home again. It was wonderful to be wrapped so warmly in her sisters' love. Best of all, it was wonderful to know that it was Gary who had won Natalie's heart, and that Brent had only been acting as a friend and go-between.

THE eleventh hour truce agreements in the railroad and telephone labor disputes were hailed with gladness. The new telephone strike delay appeared at the end of a previous truce, to change the picture just when it seemed that the earlier delay had accomplished nothing. These events give rise to a public hope that there is a growing supply of patience and real desire for agreements in the labor scene generally.

How much better it is to take a little more time to try to work out a peaceful settlement than to accept a strike which would only mean losses for all concerned. It begins to appear that these truce periods can help to produce satisfactory compromises, and to prevent the damage done by strikes.

The public is bound to be grateful for truces which postpone strikes, and to go on putting hope in them. A strike is a little bit like a tooth extraction; the patient, at least, wants to put it off as long as possible. Unfortunately the analogy ends there. The pulling of the tooth is a sure cure for an ache in it, but a strike often fails to solve the problem which caused it. There is mounting reason to suspect that the underlying cause of recurrent strikes is not to be found in the issues of wages, hours and working conditions, but in a chronic desire on both sides of the dispute to gain more than is given in the arbitration of an issue.

Strangely enough it is possible for both sides to gain more than is given in labor arbitration. But that is possible only before a strike; once a strike has started, it is certain that both sides will lose more than they gain. Those industries and concerns which have found ways to operate for long periods without strikes know that this is true. Both management and workers have gained by arrangements which settle differences before they reach the strike stage.

INDIA GOES DRY

PROHIBITION was not killed by its lack of success in the United States. It has been established in India, but only for the natives. Foreigners may get licenses for buying liquor, under the theory that they could not stand the climate otherwise.

Even the driest of American states hardly equals the rigidity of the prohibitory law in some of the provinces of India. In Bombay it is an offense to keep more than two bottles at home. In Madras all possession is forbidden, and hotels refuse to serve soda water and lime juice in rooms for fear that the guests might mix their own drinks and thus make trouble for the management.

Prohibition remained in our Constitution for thirteen years, lasting so long partly because of the difficulty in getting a repeal amendment through. No comparable legal obstacle exists in India. It will be interesting to see how long the experiment lasts.

At least the New York water shortage won't dry up the yachting season.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

In recent months, we have been moving into a pair of hysterias. One is the war hysteria, which is very bad indeed. This started when it was discovered that Klaus Fuchs had been stealing our atomic secrets since 1942 and we did not know it. The other is the hysteria of distrust arising out of the Hiss trials. While we should ferret out every traitor and spy, there is no need to get hysterical about it. Actually, it should be an ordinary police job.

About all this, the question arises: Why should there be a loyalty program? Why should there be a need for a loyalty program? Why should there even be a suspicion that American officials might be disloyal? Is it not shocking that this country should feel called upon to appoint a loyalty board to investigate its own employees?

In the mesh of accusation and defense, is that not really the question that should be asked? For what has happened to us, to our children, that loyalty is not taken for granted, and correctly taken for granted?

President Truman made a speech on the loyalty program which he instituted three years ago. Then he repeated, three years ago! When he instituted that program, did he ask himself or his advisers: What corrupting virus has eaten into the hearts of our people that their government needs to worry about the loyalty of those employed in the government? His institution of that program was a tacit admission of its need.

The President appealed to the people to notify the FBI or the Department of Justice if they have evidence of disloyalty. Well, Whittaker Chambers in 1939 brought his case to the office of the President of the United States when he spoke to Marvin McIntyre, who relayed him to Adolf A. Berle Jr. From 1939 to 1948, that story lay dormant. Then the House Committee on Un-American Activities revived it. Were it not for Congressman Nixon of California, nothing would have come of the Chambers charges against Hiss. Nixon pushed that one and deserves the credit for it.

The President himself called the Hiss case a "red herring." Chambers was violently abused. Nixon persisted. Finally, when the pumpkin papers came on the scene, the Department of Justice prosecuted Hiss and won a verdict.

But it took nearly 10 years after the first charges for the case to be brought.

Similarly the "Amerasia" case has been dormant from 1945 to today when it is being reopened by a congressional committee.

The spying thief, Arthur Adams, ran about this country, trailed by the FBI and newspaper reporters. He was almost an open spy, so many persons were trailing him and trailing his trail.

But Arthur Adams got away. I can mention other cases, but you must be as weary of the repetition as I am. What I ask is a fundamental question that must some day be answered: How did it happen?

EATING UP SURPLUS

REPORTS indicate that progress is being made in the government's plan to put some of its stored surplus foodstuffs, purchased in the agricultural price support program, into the larders of relief families and institutions. Any inclination to regard this government food as "free" should be discouraged; on the contrary it will be expensive food by the time it gets eaten. But it already has been bought and we must pay the bill, whether it is eaten or not, so it is at least partly satisfying to know that some of it, at least, will be eaten.

Candidates, who are elected, retain their faith in the ability of the people to rule themselves.

Infected Eye Hard to Heal

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

CERTAIN parts of the eyes have much less resistance to infection than other parts. Thus, if an inflammation is set up in the eye, it often proves difficult to handle and responds slowly. If at all, to simple methods of treatment.

One of these is iritis or inflammation of the colored part of the eye. In certain instances, the germs causing this condition can be identified and, in these cases, the infection can sometimes be treated with antibiotic medications. More often, however, it cannot and hence, in the majority of cases, specific treatment cannot be given.

Another such condition is known as sympathetic ophthalmia, a disorder in which a disturbance in one eye will cause severe inflammation of the other.

Typhoid Vaccine

One method of dealing with these conditions involves the injection of typhoid vaccine which produces fever and certain other reactions that seem to help get rid of the eye condition. Recently, it has been suggested that this treatment is much more successful when the injection is given slowly over a long period of time rather than in rapid, long-dose injection.

In carrying out this treatment, a small amount of the vaccine is put into a salt solution. The patient lies down and the mixture is allowed to flow into a vein at the rate of 20 to 30 drops a minute. The patient's temperature is recorded every 15 minutes.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

N. N.: What is the cause of sweating of the hands?

Answer: Excessive perspiration of the hands may be due to nervousness. Hyperthyroidism, or increased secretion from the thyroid gland, is also a cause of excessive perspiration. It is suggested that you consult your physician for an examination in order to tell what condition is present.

Either this cave is unmarked on government maps or our cave capacity still exceeds our egg sagacity.

CHAPTER THIRTY-FIVE

WHEN Jenny really woke, Brent and her sisters were no longer at the hospital. She felt better, and responded to her cheerful nurse with something like her old spirit. When Dr. Higbee came to see her, she was almost herself again. "Well," he said, rubbing his hands from the cold, and looking down at her with his twinkling smile, "you had us worried for a while, young lady. But you can bless the elements for a rapid recovery. If you hadn't had a lot of snow to cushion your fall, you'd have had a much worse concussion."

"Is that what it was?" "And still is," he cautioned her. "You're not over it yet, and we'll keep you quiet for a while. And then we'll have to X-ray that leg of yours."

Instantly the dull ache which had permeated her being became focused on her left leg, and she looked down at the counterpane curiously. "Is it broken?" she asked.

"I don't think so, but we'll have some pictures to make sure," he told her. "Still, you have a beautiful set of contusions which will keep you from hopping around for some time. How did it happen? The young man who was driving the car seemed rather incoherent about it all."

Jenny said, "Ghille got away from me and ran right in front of him. He put on his brakes and skidded. It wasn't his fault at all, and he was going slowly."

Dr. Higbee chuckled. "You'll never collect damages at that rate, Jenny!"

She smiled, too. "No, I don't suppose I will, but it's only fair to tell it the way it happened."

"That's more or less what he said. Poor devil! He got out of the car and tried to pick you up, but Ghille went for him—thought he was trying to injure you some more, I suppose. It was quite a smart thing for a while, I understand."

Jenny said suddenly, "When may I go home?" and knew, as soon as she had said it, that she really wanted to go.

"If you've no broken bones, in a couple of days. You'll be there for Christmas, if that's what's worrying you," Dr. Higbee said. "But you'll have to promise to obey orders, and be absolutely quiet for some time. Will you?"

Brent carried her into the house on the day before Christmas. Natalie had come with him, and Diane was waiting at the door to greet her. For a moment, Jenny was too excited to notice the difference in Diane, and when she did, she was dumfounded. Diane was wearing an apron! Not a frilly taffeta one, no more decoration than anything else, not a ruffled organdy one, but a good serviceable porcelaine apron of Jenny's.

They put her in the wing chair, with her left foot on the hassock, and stood around admiring her. "Oh, it's so good to have you back!" Natalie cried, winking back some tears angrily. "You'll never know what a scare you gave us, Jen! We must all be at least ten years older."

Jenny said lightly, "Well, if you've aged ten years, then I've aged twenty. And that gives me a chance to be an older sister—something I've always wanted!"

Diane suddenly sniffed the air and whirled out of the room, crying something about "I hope it isn't burning!" and Jenny looked curiously at Natalie and Brent.

"Is Dr. Higbee something?" she asked incredulously. "Custards for you," Nat told her. "She saw a couple of the trays at the hospital and decided you'd need building up when we got you home."

"But—" Jenny began, when Natalie added, "Mrs. Henlo wanted to make them, but Dr. Higbee thought she ought to make them herself, so don't be surprised if they're black on top and watery underneath."

They were just that, but Jenny did not mind. The very fact that Diane had wanted to cook them for her made them taste twice as good as any custards she had ever eaten before. Diane stayed for dinner that night, and Fred joined them. Afterward, wonder of wonders, he and Diane did the dishes, and Natalie and Brent sat with Jenny in the living room.

"Half an hour, and then you must go to bed," Natalie warned her. "We're going to keep rigidly to Dr. Higbee's schedule."

She settled down on a cushion at Jenny's feet. "We have a lot to catch up on," she said abruptly. "I hope you weren't too worried that night when I didn't get home for dinner. I did try to reach you by phone, but the phone service was disrupted where we were celebrating—on account of the snow, I suppose—and I couldn't put the call through."

Jenny closed her eyes, and in that moment of need all her strength returned. She said calmly, "I did worry, of course. But I knew there must be a reason. Where were you, Nat?"

Natalie said fiercely, "I'll never do such a thing again, going off without telling what I was going to do! But, oh, Jenny, I was afraid to talk about it—afraid that it might not come off, after all. Brent said it would, but I couldn't quite believe it."

Jenny said, "You met at the City Hall at two-thirty. Perhaps I can guess the rest."

Natalie's dark head was thrown back in surprise, and she stared at her sister with widened eyes.

"However did you know?" "I found Brent's notation in your bedroom when I straightened up that day."

Natalie's hand reached up to clasp hers. "Then you did understand. Oh, I'm so glad! You see, Brent was sure things would go smoothly, he had made all the arrangements, but I didn't actually believe Gary would be there until I saw him with my own eyes. We had planned to be married yesterday, but of course we've put it off now."

"Gary!" It was barely a whisper, but Jenny's heart seemed to be up in her throat, choking off utterance. "Gary!"

"Yes," Natalie had not even noticed her sudden lack of composure, so intent she was on her own story. "He finally came around to seeing my side of it, Jen, but it was—Brent who made him see it. He is the most stubborn man!" She said it with real pride. "And if he hadn't had a really substantial raise and a year-end bonus as well, I don't know if even Brent's arguments would have won out. Will you mind if we all live here together, Jen? Some day, we'll have our own house, of course, although I'll still want to work here in the studio. But Brent and I have practically covered the housing situation, and there isn't anything decent that we can afford right now. Will you mind?"

"I love having you," Jenny said with conviction. "Besides, it's partly your house, you know."

Natalie chuckled. "Gary insists on paying rent, and don't argue with him about it, Jenny. You'd never win the argument, and I might lose him again."

Then Jenny said something which had been bothering her. "But why do you want to be married in New York state?" she asked. "Why did you get your license in the city?"

"But we won't be!" Natalie protested. "We didn't! Where did you get that idea? Oh, I know! Brent, it's your fault. You said 'City Hall' instead of 'Town Hall' on that slip of paper you gave me."

"Just a hopelessly metropolitan creature," Brent said mournfully. "But I'm trying to get in tune with small town life. I'd better, if I'm going to live in one for the rest of my life."

That night Jenny slept deeply, with a peace which came from many factors. It was wonderful to be back in her own home again. It was wonderful to be wrapped so warmly in her sisters' love. Best of all, it was wonderful to know that it was Gary who had won Natalie's heart, and that Brent had been acting as a friend and go-between.

MARCH OF EVENTS
Russians May Possess More Warplanes Than U.S., but— Believe Red Aircraft Doesn't Excel United States Planes

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Top intelligence agencies are convinced that Russian air power has now surpassed that of the United States in terms of mass.

The intelligence people, plus high American air generals, do not, however, believe that the Soviets have excelled United States warplanes in efficiency. Nor do they believe that the Russian airman and his leaders can top the American flyer in ability.

The Air Force and the Navy are operating about 15,000 planes. It is believed Russia has about 25,000. Many of the United States planes will be obsolescent within two years, but even then they will probably be as good as the bulk of the Soviet aircraft.

American strategists believe they have the edge in their new, secret designs.

● RED PLANES IN CHINA?—The Kremlin talks between Stalin and Red China's Gen. Mao Tse-tung may have effectively sealed the fate of Nationalist China.

Although no announcement was made after the talks as to what Chinese Communists would get from Russia in the way of military assistance, the answer has not been long in coming.

Gen. Mao Tse-tung

Chinese Red forces, long at a disadvantage because lack of planes, seems suddenly to have acquired a fair number. At least, they now have enough to make a show of strength over Formosa, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's last stand.

Reports from the area say that Chinese Communist planes are over Formosa almost daily and that they seem to be increasing in numbers.

● RUSSIAN STOCKPILING—There are reports in Washington now that Russia is building up a stockpile of food, fuel and military equipment. Soviet buyers are said to be busy throughout most of the world and particularly are interested in such items as rubber, tin, lead and industrial diamonds. The Kremlin lacks these vitals.

Moscow gained a new source of lead, tin and other metals through the Communist conquest of China.

Military experts, commenting on the significance of the reports, point out that food cannot be kept too long without spoiling and that explosives deteriorate in about four years.

Some say, however, that the stockpile may be due to a Russian fear of attack from the west.

● LABOR UNITY—Despite the many failures of the past, CIO President Philip Murray's labor unity proposal is given a reasonable chance of success this time.

John L. Lewis, having won new contract gains for his miners and established a model welfare program, is believed to have one more major objective—to see the American labor movement unified.

Consequently, Lewis is expected to work powerfully toward such an end. One veteran AFL leader made this comment after Murray's unity scheme was put forward: "If there ever was a time we needed labor unity, it's now. It is time we quit thinking about what the leaders of labor want and think about what the rank and file wants. They want unity."

Berger Hospital General Guild Organizes, Hears Needs Of Local Clinic

Officers Are Named

Mrs. Edwin S. Shane was elected president of newly-organized Berger Hospital General Guild at its initial meeting Wednesday night. Mrs. Shane is from Berger Hospital Guild 1.

About 100 persons representing all 24 guilds attended the meeting held in the educational room of First Methodist church.

Slate of officers was presented at the meeting conducted by Mrs. Walter F. Heine, president of Pickaway County Medical Society auxiliary. Officers were unanimously elected with Mrs. Ned Griner, secretary of the auxiliary, casting the ballot.

First vice-president is Mrs. Martin Cromley of Berger Hospital Guild 9.

Second vice-president is Mrs. Robert Adkins of Guild 11.

Mrs. Harold Bowers of Guild 18 will serve as recording secretary.

Mrs. William Defenbaugh will be corresponding secretary. Mrs. Defenbaugh belongs to Guild 12.

Mrs. Phil E. Smith of Guild 2 will be General Guild treasurer.

Member-at-large, two year term, will be Mrs. Clark Will, and member-at-large, one year term will be Mrs. Harry Grant. Mrs. Will is a member of Berger Hospital Guild 4 and Mrs. Grant a member of Guild 15.

Robert Brehmer, member of Berger Hospital Board of Governors gave the principal address. Brehmer expressed the satisfaction and gratitude felt by the Board of Governors towards the new guilds. He stressed the point that they would fill a long-felt need in the community.

Brehmer told of the plan to enlarge the hospital within the next two years. When this happens, Brehmer said the need for hospital guilds would be even greater than before. He urged guilds to cooperate with the superintendent, Mrs. G. W. Dennis, who would be of help in the selection of a useful project.

Two committees were named. The membership committee will have as its chairman first vice-president, Mrs. Martin Cromley. Other members are Mrs. Adrian Yates of Guild 8, Mrs. Vaden Couch of Guild 16 and Mrs. Rolif Wolford of Guild 20.

The second-vice president, Mrs. Adkins, will automatically become head of publicity committee. Named to serve on her committee are Mrs. Elmer Payne of Guild 14, Mrs. Luther Bower of Guild 3 and Miss Florence Dutton of Guild 5.

Reports were heard from the 24 guild chairmen concerning the selection of their projects. A question and answer period was held.

General Guild meetings will be held three times a year.

An executive board made up of the elected officers and the three immediate past presidents of medical society auxiliary will function regularly. May 22 is the date for the next meeting of the executive board.

The reading of the constitution was also on the agenda for the evening. It was accepted.

City Girls Form 2 More 4-H Clubs For Year

Circleville girls are not going to let the rural youngsters get ahead of them and have all the fun. Two more 4-H clubs have been organized within Circleville recently. That brings the total up to three 4-H clubs in the city.

Twenty-three members met to organize the new Junior 4-H Club. They chose the name of Jr. Circle Sew Straight 4-H club. Lois Cook will serve as adviser to the new group.

Lurhita Buskirk will be president. Julia Ann Smith will be vice-president. Sharon Riegel was elected secretary. Dolores Hutchison was chosen treasurer.

Other officers include Barbara Binkley, news reporter; Patty Winner, sales tax chairman; Nancy Arledge, recreation leader.

Next meeting will take place Thursday in Corwin Street school.

Another recently formed 4-H club is the "Future Mrs." a hope chest club. The purpose, according to a spokesman for the club is to make articles for hope chests. Barbara Thornton is adviser.

When elections were held at the organizational meeting in the home of Addie Wertman, Bonnie Thornton was made president. Carolyn Martin will serve as vice-president. Addie Wertman will be secretary and Barbara Smalley was chosen as treasurer.

Other officers are Patty Radcliff, news reporter; Lois Cook,

Capital Trio Is Feature Of Ashville Meet

A special feature of the annual tea given by the Women's Society of Christian Service of Ashville Methodist church was an instrumental trio from Capital university.

The tea was held Saturday afternoon in the social room of the church. The trio consisted of Harold Krull, pianist; Jane Finger, flutist; and Edward Wolf, baritone.

The girls sextet from Ashville high school sang two numbers. Others on the program were Marie Anderson in a trombone solo and Edith Cummins and Ralph Fry in a trumpet duet.

Mrs. S. E. Duvall and Carolyn Courtright presented piano and organ duets. Mrs. William Plum played the organ postlude. Mrs. Ralph Cloud, program chairman, planned the music with her committee.

Snapdragons and ferns on a mirror formed the centerpiece of the tea table. Mrs. Charles Trone and Mrs. William Snyder presided at the punch bowl.

Mrs. T. R. Acord was chairman of the dining room committee. In charge of refreshments were Mrs. William Whitehead and Mrs. Walter Hedges.

Daffodil arrangements in the sanctuary were supplied by Mrs. James Hoti.

Club Holds Roundtable On Election

A roundtable discussion on the forthcoming election was one of the features of the program of GOP Booster's club Thursday evening.

Mrs. Howard Clark was hostess to the group in her home on Walnut Street. Assisting her was Miss Leona Dumm.

Miss Lucille Dumm, club president, was discussion leader. The qualifications of the candidates for election were talked over during the roundtable.

Mrs. Rex Pitt, recently returned from her native Wales, answered questions concerning social and economic welfare of her country and the changes occurring in her three-year absence.

Mrs. Henry O'Hara was given an anniversary present.

Game winners during the recreational hour were Mrs. Irvin Smith, Mrs. Robert Barnes and Mrs. Harry Styers.

Mrs. Ernest Minor of Kinderhook will entertain the group in May.

Pontius EUB Class Meets

Mrs. Russell Palm was in charge of the program when Mrs. Guy Stockman and Mrs. Roy Bowman entertained Willing Worker Class of Pontius Evangelical United Brethren church in their home Thursday.

The program consisted of games and contests and followed the reading of a poem by Mrs. Palm. The poem was entitled "Carry Sunshine."

Mrs. Larry Goodman, in charge of devotionals, read scripture.

Ways and means were the subjects of discussion at the business meeting over which Mrs. Ethel Klingensmith presided.

The hostesses served a dessert course following the recreational hour.

Miss Hulda Leist will entertain the group in her home at the next meeting. Assisting her will be Mrs. Chauncey McCoard.

1st EUB Class Names Officers

Home Builders class of First Evangelical United Brethren church elected officers Monday night. The meeting was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Richardson of West Franklin street.

Robert Valentine will be president for the coming year. Woodrow Carley was elected vice-president; Mrs. Owen Fullen, secretary; Mrs. Richardson, assistant secretary; Mrs. Raymond Reichelderfer, treasurer; and Mrs. Clarence Radcliff, teacher.

Twenty-five members and guests were present. The hosts served a dessert course following the social hour.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Valentine will entertain the class when it meets in May.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Strehle of Circleville Route 4 have announced the engagement of their daughter, Edith Laura, to George N. McClelland, son of Fred McClelland of near Logan and the late Mrs. McClelland.

Miss Strehle, a graduate of Walnut Township high school, has been engaged in evangelistic work with her brother, William Strehle, for three years.

Mr. McClelland, a graduate of Laureville high school, is engaged in farming near South Perry. No date has been set for the wedding.

Personals

Mrs. Turney Ross of 440 East Union street will be hostess to Loyal Daughter Class of First Evangelical United Brethren church in her home at 8 p. m. Tuesday.

Mrs. E. L. Tolbert, president, will be in charge of the meeting of Daughters of Union Veterans of Civil War to be held in post room of Memorial Hall at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Haston Conley of Elm avenue attended a dinner dance in Columbus recently. After the affair they were overnight guests of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Pestal of Livingston avenue. Both Conley and Pestal were members of the orchestra which provided music for the dance.

Mrs. Howard Boggs Jr. of Kingston and Miss Helen Hoffman of Saltcreek Township will be co-hostesses when Kingston Garden Club meets at 2 p. m. Tuesday in Mt. Pleasant Presbyterian church in Kingston. Mrs. Trimble Parker of the Clarksburg Community will speak on "Shrubs."

When Mrs. E. C. Wilkins entertains Women's Society of Christian Service of Emmett's Chapel church in her home at 2 p. m. Wednesday, she will be assisted by Mrs. Sam Elsea and Mrs. Harry Wright. Mrs. Wilkins lives on Circleville Route 1.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Spradlin of Circleville had as Sunday dinner guests Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Music, Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Burle Spradlin and daughters Shirley, Judy and Sue, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Spradlin, and son, Bobby, all of Portsmouth.

Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Robinson and Mrs. Lloyd Robinson of Ostrander; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Glick and Penny Jane of Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Glitt, Sandy and Diana and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Jenkins and Jerry of Circleville.

Saltcreek 8th Graders Sponsors Lively Carnival

When the Class of 1955 enters Saltcreek high school next September, it will already have the money for the first leg of a senior trip to Washington D. C.

Eighth graders held a carnival recently in the school building. The proceeds will go toward that much planned for eastern tour that comes as the highlight of the high school career.

One hundred and fifty attended the carnival which eighth graders planned for several weeks. Leslie Dearth, eighth grade teacher, was general chairman with Barbara Robinette and Mary Payne as assistants.

Responsible for the food booth at which sandwiches, cold drinks, homemade cookies con-fee were served were Elmer Tatman, Don Ebert, Donald Imier, Ruth Tatman and George Hutchison.

Lindsay Dingess and Gerald Ralston presided at the games table.

Paul Huffman and Ronald Stevens were in charge of the booth where carnival goers tried to knock over pop bottles. Homere Moreno and Robert Rada-baugh were responsible for one of the most popular concessions. Betty Haynes and Ruth Tucker were in charge of the "fortune-telling" booth. In another booth, Buddy Enoch and Dean Hedges took charge.

James Fox and David Hartman headed the bull's eye concession; David Crabtree and Lloyd Hupp, the dart-throwing booth; Anna Louise Horne and Garry Carrol, the clothes pins in a milk bottle test booth.

Harold Strous, school superintendent, was auctioneer for con-

Pleasant View Group Meets

Mrs. Mark Friece of Circleville Route 4 entertained 24 members and guests of Pleasant View Evangelical United Brethren church Ladies Aid in her home Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Fred Reichelderfer was in charge of the program. Miss Gift Macklin gave a reading. Mrs. O. F. Mowery read a letter from Mrs. Orman Bright, who is still in Florida. Mrs. Joe Valentine and Mrs. Reichelderfer gave readings. Sally Weaver gave a recitation.

The program was concluded by a contest Mrs. Reichelderfer conducted.

Mrs. Friece served refreshments after the recreational hour and the business session conducted by Mrs. Helen Strous, president.

Berger Hospital General Guild Organizes, Hears Needs Of Local Clinic

Officers Are Named

Mrs. Edwin S. Shane was elected president of newly-organized Berger Hospital General Guild at its initial meeting Wednesday night. Mrs. Shane is from Berger Hospital Guild 1.

About 100 persons representing all 24 guilds attended the meeting held in the educational room of First Methodist church.

Slate of officers was presented at the meeting conducted by Mrs. Walter F. Heine, president of Pickaway County Medical Society auxiliary. Officers were unanimously elected with Mrs. Ned Griner, secretary of the auxiliary, casting the ballot.

First vice-president is Mrs. Martin Cromley of Berger Hospital Guild 9.

Second vice-president is Mrs. Robert Adkins of Guild 11.

Mrs. Harold Bowers of Guild 18 will serve as recording secretary.

Mrs. William Defenbaugh will be corresponding secretary. Mrs. Defenbaugh belongs to Guild 12.

Mrs. Phil E. Smith of Guild 2 will be General Guild treasurer.

Member-at-large, two year term, will be Mrs. Clark Will, and member-at-large, one year term will be Mrs. Harry Grant. Mrs. Will is a member of Berger Hospital Guild 4 and Mrs. Grant a member of Guild 15.

Robert Brehmer, member of Berger Hospital Board of Governors gave the principal address. Brehmer expressed the satisfaction and gratitude felt by the Board of Governors towards the new guilds. He stressed the point that they would fill a long-felt need in the community.

Brehmer told of the plan to enlarge the hospital within the next two years. When this happens, Brehmer said the need for hospital guilds would be even greater than before. He urged guilds to cooperate with the superintendent, Mrs. G. W. Dennis, who would be of help in the selection of a useful project.

Two committees were named. The membership committee will have as its chairman first vice-president, Mrs. Martin Cromley. Other members are Mrs. Adrian Yates of Guild 8, Mrs. Vaden Couch of Guild 16 and Mrs. Rolif Wolford of Guild 20.

The second vice president, Mrs. Adkins, will automatically become head of publicity committee. Named to serve on her committee are Mrs. Elmer Payne of Guild 14, Mrs. Luther Bower of Guild 3 and Miss Florence Dunton of Guild 5.

Reports were heard from the 24 guild chairmen concerning the selection of their projects. A question and answer period was held.

General Guild meetings will be held three times a year.

An executive board made up of the elected officers and the three immediate past presidents of medical society auxiliary will function regularly. May 22 is the date for the next meeting of the executive board.

The reading of the constitution was also on the agenda for the evening. It was accepted.

City Girls Form 2 More 4-H Clubs For Year

Circleville girls are not going to let the rural youngsters get ahead of them and have all the fun. Two more 4-H clubs have been organized within Circleville recently. That brings the total up to three 4-H clubs in the city.

Twenty-three members met to organize the new Junior 4-H Club. They chose the name of Jr. Circle Sew Straight 4-H club. Lois Cook will serve as adviser to the new group.

Lurhita Buskirk will be president. Julia Ann Smith will be vice-president. Sharon Riegel was elected secretary. Dolores Hutchison was chosen treasurer. Other officers include Barbara Binkley, news reporter; Patty Winner, sales tax chairman; Nancy Arledge, recreation leader.

Next meeting will take place Thursday in Corwin Street school.

Another recently formed 4-H club is the "Future Mrs." a hope chest club. The purpose, according to a spokesman for the club is to make articles for hope chests. Barbara Thornton is adviser.

When elections were held at the organizational meeting in the home of Addie Wertman, Bonnie Thornton was made president. Carolyn Martin will serve as vice-president. Addie Wertman will be secretary and Barbara Smalley was chosen as treasurer.

Other officers are Patty Radcliff, news reporter; Lois Cook,

Capital Trio Is Feature Of Ashville Meet

A special feature of the annual tea given by the Women's Society of Christian Service of Ashville Methodist church was an instrumental trio from Capital University.

The tea was held Saturday afternoon in the social room of the church. The trio consisted of Harold Krull, pianist; Jane Finger, flutist; and Edward Wolf, baritone.

The girls sextet from Ashville high school sang two numbers. Others on the program were Marie Anderson in a trombone solo and Edith Cummins and Ralph Fry in a trumpet duet.

Mrs. S. E. Duvall and Carolyn Courtright presented piano and organ duets. Mrs. William Plum played the organ postlude. Mrs. Ralph Cloud, program chairman, planned the music with her committee.

Snappers and ferns on a mirror formed the centerpiece of the tea table. Mrs. Charles Trone and Mrs. William Snyder presided at the punch bowl.

Mrs. T. R. Acord was chairman of the dining room committee. In charge of refreshments were Mrs. William Whitehead and Mrs. Walter Hedges.

Daffodil arrangements in the sanctuary were supplied by Mrs. James Hott.

Club Holds Roundtable On Election

A roundtable discussion on the forthcoming election was one of the features of the program of GOP Booster's club Thursday evening.

Mrs. Howard Clark was hostess to the group in her home on Walnut Street. Assisting her was Miss Leona Dumm.

Miss Lucille Dumm, club president, was discussion leader. The qualifications of the candidates for election were talked over during the roundtable.

Mrs. Rex Pitt, recently returned from her native Wales, answered questions concerning social and economic welfare of her country and the changes occurring in her three-year absence.

Mrs. Henry O'Hara was given an anniversary present.

Game winners during the recreational hour were Mrs. Irvin Smith, Mrs. Robert Barnes and Mrs. Harry Styers.

Mrs. Ernest Minor of Kinderhook will entertain the group in May.

Pontius EUB Class Meets

Mrs. Russell Palm was in charge of the program when Mrs. Guy Stockman and Mrs. Roy Bowman entertained Willing Worker Class of Pontius Evangelical United Brethren church in their home Thursday.

The program consisted of games and contests and followed the reading of a poem by Mrs. Palm. The poem was entitled "Carry Sunshine."

Mrs. Larry Goodman, in charge of devotional, read scripture.

Ways and means were the subjects of discussion at the business meeting over which Mrs. Ethel Klingensmith presided.

The hostesses served a dessert course following the recreational hour.

Miss Hulda Leist will entertain the group in her home at the next meeting. Assisting her will be Mrs. Chauncey McCoard.

1st EUB Class Names Officers

Home Builders class of First Evangelical United Brethren church elected officers Monday night. The meeting was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Richardson of West Franklin street.

Robert Valentine will be president for the coming year. Woodrow Carley was elected vice-president; Mrs. Owen Fullen, secretary; Mrs. Richardson, assistant secretary; Mrs. Raymond Reichelderfer, treasurer; and Mrs. Clarence Radcliff, teacher.

Twenty-five members and guests were present. The hosts served a dessert course following the social hour.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Valentine will entertain the class when it meets in May.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Strehle of Circleville Route 4 have announced the engagement of their daughter, Edith Laora, to George N. McClelland, son of Fred McClelland of near Logan and the late Mrs. McClelland.

Miss Strehle, a graduate of Walnut Township high school, has been engaged in evangelistic work with her brother, William Strehle, for three years.

Mr. McClelland, a graduate of Laurelville high school, is engaged in farming near South Perry. No date has been set for the wedding.

Personals

Mrs. Turney Ross of 440 East Union street will be hostess to Loyal Daughter Class of First Evangelical United Brethren church in her home at 8 p. m. Tuesday.

Mrs. E. L. Tolbert, president, will be in charge of the meeting of Daughters of Union Veterans of Civil War to be held in post room of Memorial Hall at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Haston Conley of Elm avenue attended a dinner dance in Columbus recently. After the affair they were overnight guests of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Pestal of Livingston avenue. Both Conley and Pestal were members of the orchestra which provided music for the dance.

Mrs. Howard Boggs Jr. of Kingston and Miss Helen Hoffman of Saltcreek Township will be co-hostesses when Kingston Garden Club meets at 2 p. m. Tuesday in Mt. Pleasant Presbyterian church in Kingston. Mrs. Trimble Parker of the Clarksburg Community will speak on "Shrubs."

When Mrs. E. C. Wilkins entertains Women's Society of Christian Service of Emmett's Chapel church in her home at 2 p. m. Wednesday, she will be assisted by Mrs. Sam Elsea and Mrs. Harry Wright. Mrs. Wilkins lives on Circleville Route 1.

By BILLY ROSE

Honorable Harry S. Truman
The White House
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. President:

It may interest you to know that there's a man in New York who knows exactly how many atom bombs we have, exactly where they're hidden and exactly how they're being guarded. What's more, he is connected in no way with the Atomic Energy Commission, the Army, Navy or any other branch of the government.

With your patience and permission, I'd like to tell you about him.

Not long ago, this man—the editor of a national magazine with more than 15 million readers—went to Washington on routine business.

The day he arrived he was invited to a dinner party in Georgetown, and over the post-prandial brandy he got into a bull session with several members of the military and bureaucratic elite. When the subject of the atom bomb came up, a high-ranking official laughed. "Don't worry about our A-bombs," he said, and then, without prodding or prying, he proceeded to tell the editor and the other guests precisely how many bombs we had, where they were stored, and the security measures in force in the area. At the end, the drinky-talky notable smiled as if to say, "You folks didn't know what a bright boy I was, did you?"

The editor, an old friend of mine, told me this story a couple of days after he got back to New York, and I've been using a lot of barbiturates ever since. He's a zipper-lipped citizen who edits his thoughts as carefully as his copy, and I believe him when he says that Washington is currently a-busting with blabbermouths who, at the drop of a daiquiri, blurt out top secrets with only a prefaced "This is off the record" to tidy up their consciences.

FORTUNATELY for us, this magazine man is not apt to talk out of school or turn, but it stands to wonderful reason that if he can come away from Washington with this kind of information a lot of other people can too—including those who cash their pay checks in the First National Bank of Moscow.

In this day and dilemma, Mr. President, government by gossip can easily mean the end of government by consent, and from where I sit and tremble, it's high time you pressed a few buttons and initiated some big scale tracking and cracking down. If heads must fall, then let them fall—and if you want to take that literally, it's all right with me, not to mention 150 million other Americans who don't own a bomb shelter or a lead-lined tuxedo.

Respectfully,
Billy Rose.
P. S. — It may further interest you to know that, according to a recent estimate, the per capita consumption of hard liquor in Washington is greater than that of any other town in this country.

Bainbridge Ready For Big Show

Paint Valley Town Books Celebration

COLUMBUS, April 28 — Proof that a small community can put on a big show will be demonstrated Sunday, May 7, when Bainbridge holds its fourth annual Open House.

"Blossom Time In Paint Valley" has been selected for this year's theme. In four years time the event sponsored by the Bainbridge Progressive Association has become finest salutes to Spring.

The celebrations staged by the little community on the George Washington highway west of Chillicothe, are unique because they combine showmanship and hospitality. The program offers a parade with 36 floats and several bands, religious services, humorous talks, demonstrations of unusual crafts, and conducted tours over some of the most beautiful scenic drives in the mid-west. Special emphasis is placed on the fact that no admission will be charged for any event.

This year's Open House will begin at 2:30 p. m. with a parade which will be followed at 3:20 by an address by Ollie James, well-known Cincinnati newspaperman.

BAINBRIDGE CHURCHES and schools will provide musical programs and industrial arts demonstrations and displays. The annual events are scheduled each year to coincide with the blossoming of the redbud trees. When viewed from the lofty skyline drives that rim Paint Creek Valley the hillsides cloaked with millions of trees in full bloom makes one of the most beautiful sights in the world.

Since prehistoric times Paint Valley has attracted much attention. The Mound Builders made the area their headquarters and constructed many great earthworks among which were Serpent Mound, Siep Mound, Fort Hill, and many others.

This region which boasts of "The Biggest Crick in the World" and the Seven Caves, also bears the label "The Valley of Kings." Descendants of several Indian tribes still live in the surrounding hills.

Bainbridge is also known as the "Cradle of Dental Science". The world's first dental college, in the center of town, is now a museum.

Like many other beautiful spots in Ohio, the Paint Valley area remained practically unknown until the progressive association originated the unique idea for attracting visitors.

Apple Spray Bulletin Says Watch Weather

WOOSTER, April 28—Following is a bulletin from the local agricultural extension service fruit spray service:

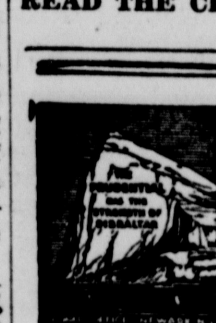

Growers in the Cincinnati, Adams and Lawrence areas, who applied the first pre-blossom scab spray during the week ending April 22 and who have not applied a scab spray this week, should watch their varieties and the weather.

In the Warren, Jackson and Athens areas, if present temperatures prevail, varieties such as Delicious should be at full pink or in bloom this weekend and should receive the second, or, for some growers, the third pre-blossom spray, for protection to elect a board of directors.

The decision gives the green light to Board Chairman Cyrus Eaton. Cleveland financier, who has advocated continuation of the concern with reinvestment of part or all of the $12 million cash received in the sale of the Portsmouth plant last January to the Detroit Steel Corp.

UNDERWOOD FAVORED TO WIN

Mell G. Underwood, Jr.

Favorable reports from over the Eleventh Congressional District indicate Attorney Mell G. Underwood, Jr., of New Lexington has an excellent chance to win the Democratic nomination for Congress next Tuesday if the Democratic voters of Pickaway County go to the polls and support him.

Underwood has conducted a clean, active and aggressive campaign for the Democratic nomination for Congress and has made a good impression on the voters.

Due to the absence of local contests there may be a light vote in this County. However, the Democratic men and women of Pickaway County no doubt will go to the polls and support a man for Congress who can win if nominated.

Underwood will be grateful for your support and a kind word to your friends in his behalf.

House Spurns Move To Gag Brannan Talks

WASHINGTON, April 28—Agriculture Secretary Brannan is running ahead of his critics because the House rejected a move to put a gag on him.

The House spurned a proposition late yesterday to curb his speech-making freedom before farm groups throughout the nation.

It turned down, by a 89 to 47 vote, an amendment by Rep. Taber, (R) N. Y., to the omnibus appropriations bill which would have forced Brannan to ask Congress for permission to attend any farm group meetings at government expense.

The move to slap a gag on Brannan was spurred by a meeting of Production and Marketing Administration committee members in Minnesota last month at which Brannan spoke.

Expenses to bring the committee to the meeting were paid by the Agriculture Department. Republicans quickly levied charges at Brannan that he used government dollars to sell the administration-backed Brannan Farm Plan.

Elks Lodge Books Initiation For Tuesday

Newly-installed officers of Circleville Lodge of Elks were making final preparations Friday for their first initiation meeting due next Tuesday evening.

Headed by Dr. David Goldschmidt, new exalted ruler, the officers will induct a class of about ten candidates into the order.

The initiation ceremony will be preceded at 6:30 p. m. by a fried chicken dinner. The lodge will open its regular meeting at 8 p. m. and this session will feature initiation ceremonies.

Following initiation, the house committee has scheduled a "general good time" for the newly-initiated members, old members and visiting Elks.

UNDERWOOD FAVORED TO WIN

Mell G. Underwood, Jr.

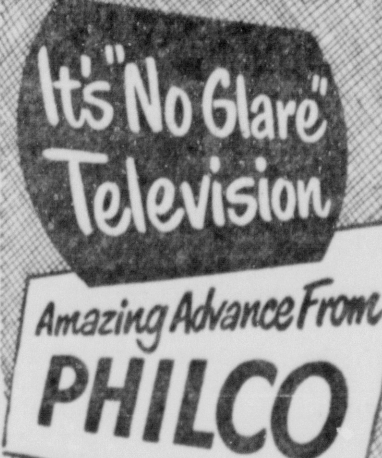

Favorable reports from over the Eleventh Congressional District indicate Attorney Mell G. Underwood, Jr., of New Lexington has an excellent chance to win the Democratic nomination for Congress next Tuesday if the Democratic voters of Pickaway County go to the polls and support him.

Underwood has conducted a clean, active and aggressive campaign for the Democratic nomination for Congress and has made a good impression on the voters.

Due to the absence of local contests there may be a light vote in this County. However, the Democratic men and women of Pickaway County no doubt will go to the polls and support a man for Congress who can win if nominated.

Underwood will be grateful for your support and a kind word to your friends in his behalf.

WRFD BOOKS PROGRAM

County Youths To Get Recognition On Radio

Pickaway County will be featured on Radio Station WRFD's "Junior Fair" program May 7 at 12:30 p. m. A transcription of Pickaway County rural youth will be made on Saturday evening, May 6, in the Pickaway Fairgrounds Coliseum.

The program will start at 7:30 p. m. with a music talent show. Each school in the county will have at least one number. From this group the audience will select three numbers for the broadcast.

The half hour transcription will be made at 8:30 p. m. It will be followed by two hours of square dancing, which is open to the public. The Rural Rangers from WRFD will furnish the music.

Four young people will be interviewed during the transcription. Jean Dearth of Kingston Route 1, Betty Jean Riddle of Orient Route 1, David Bolender of Circleville Route 4, and David Six of Ashville Route 1 will tell of their community activities.

MISS DEARTH is the 1950 National 4-H Camp delegate from Ohio. She will go to Washington

2 High School Lads Selected For Boys' State

Two Circleville high school juniors have been selected to represent the Circleville American Legion at Buckeye Boys' State.

Bob Friece, chairman of the Boys' State committee for the local post, said the lads selected as delegates to the annual mythical government are Gene Kerns, son of Dr. and Mrs. V. D. Kerns of 234 North Scioto street, and William Stout, son of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Stout of Oakwood Place.

Principal J. Wray Henry of Circleville high school said the two boys were selected for the program by their teachers. He said the judging was based primarily on their scholastic ability and their interest in government.

Meanwhile, a third boy is to be selected from the county school system to represent the local post.

The county delegate will be sponsored by Circleville Rotary Club. The selection has not been made to date.

Donald Crabtree of Saltcreek Township school has been chosen delegate to the Boys' State function representing the Kings-ton American Legion post. Crabtree is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Crabtree of Saltcreek Township.

Broad Study Plan Being Set Up To Aid Vets

WASHINGTON, April 28—The government asserted today that a broad scientific investigation is being conducted to assure America's disabled servicemen the world's best medical treatment.

The Veterans Administration said that the investigation is now being completed in 23 leading medical colleges and four major hospitals throughout the country under VA direction.

Being studied are 22 vulnerable illnesses and disabilities suffered by World War II vets. These followup studies expect to determine whether the government can "type" certain persons as being unfit for military duty such as neurotics and tuberculosis cases. Other answers being sought:

1. Is there a better way of taking care of disabled servicemen in future wars?
2. What kind of a patient load can be expected in VA hospitals in the future.
3. What can be done to improve the care of future war casualties?

Dr. A. H. Lawton, VA medical official, pointed out that the government failed to make such studies after World War I, thereby losing the benefit of medical knowledge that would have proved helpful in treating the same disabilities suffered by World War II vets.

Worker Given Pay Rights

A verdict entitling Joseph Wilson to participate in a state insurance fund was returned this week by a jury in Pickaway County common pleas court.

Wilson, seeking to participate in the state industrial compensation program, brought a lawsuit against the Industrial Commission of Ohio, claiming an injury while working for a local firm. The commission had rejected his claim.

SATIRE DUE IN CLEVELAND 'Potato Road' Is Booked To Slap Buckeye Solons

CLEVELAND, April 28 — Barring mass suicides come day after primary election day, Ohio politicians will have a chance to see themselves portrayed in the glaring spotlight of a satire called "Potato Road, or, The Bomb's Rush."

And if past responses are repeated this year, most of them will be in attendance when the curtain goes up on the Cleveland City Club's 37th annual Anvil Revue May 5.

The club's burlesquing of national and international politics and politicians has won state and nationwide attention.

Each year prominent businessmen and professional people have barbed themselves in the manners and costumes of important personages to toss off biting criticisms across the footlights to Republicans, Democrats and third parties, alike.

Though the event is a private affair and limited to members of the club and their friends, each successive revue has attracted the attention of a greater number of people and columns of newspaper space.

CLEVELAND Music Hall was booked originally for this year's performance in order to accommodate those who have already manifested their eagerness to see the show, but satire had to a stereotyped citizen named Ben Sapp.

Sapp, however, has often proved more shrewd than those who dominate his life at home and abroad.

In the past, leading Ohioans caricatured in the club's revues have found the satires an appropriate postscript to years crammed with dramatic political events.

Considering the confused state of the current political campaigns, these same politicians will find little to disappoint them when City Club parades them before themselves next week.

Reducing Studio Wins Lawsuit

COLUMBUS, April 28 — Dora Rubenstein of Cleveland will not be able to collect from the Sydney Hill System for Women because a reducing machine belt broke under her weight.

The plaintiff, described in her brief as "a woman of more than ample girth," went to the studio for a reducing course and, when the belt parted, fell and she fractured her back.

She won a $4,000 judgment in the decision yesterday after a board meeting. He said an order of sale petition will be filed next week with the court requesting that it sell the multimillion dollar prefabricated housing firm.

Lustron, behind on its payments on loans amounting to $37.5 million to RFC, is operating under a receivership. The decision to sell was made after RFC was unable to negotiate a sale with private groups.

the Cuyahoga County common pleas court, but the decision was reversed by the eighth district court of appeals and final judgment returned for the studio. The Ohio supreme court today refused to admit her appeal to review.

Reducing Studio Wins Lawsuit
COLUMBUS, April 28 — Dora Rubenstein of Cleveland will not be able to collect from the Sydney Hill System for Women because a reducing machine belt broke under her weight.
The plaintiff, described in her brief as "a woman of more than ample girth," went to the studio for a reducing course and, when the belt parted, fell and she fractured her back.
She won a $4,000 judgment in the decision yesterday after a board meeting. He said an order of sale petition will be filed next week with the court requesting that it sell the multimillion dollar prefabricated housing firm.
Lustron, behind on its payments on loans amounting to $37.5 million to RFC, is operating under a receivership. The decision to sell was made after RFC was unable to negotiate a sale with private groups.

RFC To Seek Lustron Sale

WASHINGTON, April 28—The Reconstruction Finance Corp. plans today to start proceedings in federal court in Columbus May 5 for the sale of the Lustron Corp.

PREFER 'MISS' OR 'MRS.'?

Woman Reporter Dislikes Revival Of Lucy Stoners

By INEZ ROBB INS Staff Writer

NEW YORK, April 28 — It beats me why any woman, who has gone to all the trouble to bait the trap and lure a man into marriage, still insists on using her maiden name henceforth and forever.

But the girls are reviving the Lucy Stone League. I thought it had gotten permanently lost 'way back there between the two world wars.

The ladies of the league, Lord lov'em, are determined "to preserve their individual identity" after marriage by spirited use of their respective maiden names, come hell, high water or house dicks.

I have never yet been able to understand just what a woman proves when she prefers a park bench to the fearful ignominy of registering at a hotel as "Mr. and Mrs. John Jones" with her lawful, wedded spouse.

Or just what aid and comfort she takes from the swift departure of her husband for the local lockup when she insists on registering as "Mr. John Jones and Miss Mary Smith" and the hotel's private eye takes her at her word.

Woman has enough impediments in her handbag now without adding a marriage license to prove that the man who is following her (probably with the baggage and a beaten look) has a legal right to do so.

LIFE IS sufficiently complicated without having to flash a license to prove that although you prefer to be addressed as "Miss," you are really a Mrs., that the man really is your husband and that the children aren't really little you-know-whats.

Some of my best friends are Lucy Stoners, although I hate to admit it, as I think it dates me as definitely as my fidelity to Clark Gable and Charles Boyer.

And the girls are going to hate me for it, but the ladies who are now reviving the Lucy Stone League are all a good bit nearer the age of collapse than the age of consent.

In short, I think the league is a wee bit dated and I doubt if it will be able to gain many recruits from the on-coming crop of June brides.

A good man is hard to find, and no girl in her right mind is going to antagonize him from the beginning by insisting on the use of her own name when he has been gallant enough to proffer his.

Men are the conventional sex, full of inhibitions, social fetishes and tribal repressions. Man, not woman, invented the wedding ring to prove that he had done right by the girl. It was Adam, scandalized by Eve's loose conduct with an apple, who insisted she put on the fig leaves.

Our boys are timid in the face of social customs and I doubt if one married man out of ten thousand but would prefer to fry at the stake rather than scandalize the neighborhood by sharing a mail box with his wife (his own) who insisted on lettering it "Mr. Jones and Miss Smith."

UNLIKE WOMEN, men are sensitive creatures, unable to brazen out such situations.

A legal love-nest, such as the Lucy Stoners envision, is apt to make a man tense and uneasy, prone to run home to Mother and to keep an apprehensive eye out.

Despite his big talk, nothing makes an average gentleman more nervous than to live in sin publicly, especially with his own wife.

Popular belief to the contrary, men are the conventional sex, and this is no time for Lucy toners to scare them out of their wits. I understand that the 1950 census will confirm the horrid news that there are at least a million more marriageable women in this country than similarly afflicted men.

If women have the sense God gave geese, they will quit frightening the daylight out of the few eligibles left. Even the Lucy Stoners would feel mighty silly if no one married them. How could they fight to retain the use of their maiden names then?

PREFER 'MISS' OR 'MRS.'?

Woman Reporter Dislikes Revival Of Lucy Stoners

By INEZ ROBB
INS Staff Writer

NEW YORK, April 28 — It beats me why any woman, who has gone to all the trouble to bait the trap and lure a man into marriage, still insists on using her maiden name henceforth and forever.

But the girls are reviving the Lucy Stone League. I thought it had gotten permanently lost 'way back there between the two world wars.

The ladies of the league, Lord love'em, are determined "to preserve their individual identity" after marriage by spirited use of their respective maiden names, come hell, high water or house dicks.

I have never yet been able to understand just what a woman proves when she prefers a park bench to the fearful ignominy of registering at a hotel as "Mr. and Mrs. John Jones" with her lawful, wedded spouse.

Or just what aid and comfort she takes from the swift departure of her husband for the local lockup when she insists on registering as "Mr. John Jones and Miss Mary Smith" and the hotel's private eye takes her at her word.

Woman has enough impediments in her handbag now without adding a marriage license to prove that the man who is following her (probably with the baggage and a beaten look) has a legal right to do so.

LIFE IS sufficiently complicated without having to flash a license to prove that although you prefer to be addressed as "Miss," you are really a Mrs., that the man really is your husband and that the children aren't really little you-know-whats.

Some of my best friends are Lucy Stoners, although I hate to admit it, as I think it dates me as definitely as my fidelity to Clark Gable and Charles Boyer. And the girls are going to hate me for it, but the ladies who are now reviving the Lucy Stone League are all a good bit nearer the age of collapse than the age of consent.

In short, I think the league is a wee bit dated and I doubt if it will be able to gain many recruits from the on-coming crop of June brides.

A good man is hard to find, and no girl in her right mind is going to antagonize him from the beginning by insisting on the use of her own name when he has been gallant enough to proffer his.

Men are the conventional sex, full of inhibitions, social fetishes and tribal repressions. Man, not woman, invented the wedding ring to prove that he had done right by the girl. It was Adam, scandalized by Eve's loose conduct with an apple, who insisted she put on the fig leaves.

Our boys are timid in the face of social customs and I doubt if one married man out of ten thousand but would prefer to fry at the stake rather than scandalize the neighborhood by sharing a mail box with his wife (his own) who insisted on lettering it "Mr. Jones and Miss Smith."

UNLIKE WOMEN, men are sensitive creatures, unable to brazen out such situations.

A legal love-nest, such as the Lucy Stoners envision, is apt to make a man tense and uneasy, prone to run home to Mother and to keep an apprehensive eye out.

Despite his big talk, nothing makes an average gentleman more nervous than to live in sin publicly, especially with his own wife.

Popular belief to the contrary, men are the conventional sex, and this is no time for Lucy toners to scare them out of their wits. I understand that the 1950 census will confirm the horrid news that there are at least a million more marriageable women in this country than similarly afflicted men.

If women have the sense God gave geese, they will quit frightening the daylight out of the few eligibles left. Even the Lucy Stoners would feel mighty silly if no one married them. How could they fight to retain the use of their maiden names then?

TERMITES

Cause damage in excess of fifty million dollars annually for REPAIRS alone. These destructive pests work in secret and may be destroying your property NOW. Have it inspected by an expert and be sure. There is no charge for the inspection, and if your property is not infested they will tell you so. If termites are present you will be SHOWN and a fair price quoted for a treatment which is guaranteed for TEN YEARS. Many irresponsible amateurs—self-styled "exterminators" and "part time" entomologists offer fantastic "guarantees" and bargain prices, but you owe it to yourself to be SURE you are securing the services of a thoroughly reliable and FINANCIALLY RESPONSIBLE company whose guarantee really has a meaning. An effective termite treatment must not only eliminate the termites now present in the structure, but also prevent the countless thousands of others, who live in the GROUND outside the house, from reentering. The almost unbelievable cunning of the termites makes the successful treatment of your property a job for those who have the proper equipment and the KNOW HOW. Further, because of the termites tenacity and persistence it is sometimes impossible to completely exterminate them with ONE treatment. Therefore it is vital that the company doing the job be AVAILABLE later to return if necessary. Unless you are SURE of this fact you may find yourself with a "Guarantee" but no one STILL IN BUSINESS to MAKE GOOD. Always remember—a guarantee is only as good as the man who gives it. We are local representatives of a reputable and FINANCIALLY RESPONSIBLE company who are ACCREDITED MEMBERS OF THE OHIO PEST CONTROL ASSOCIATION.

Bums Find Nemesis In Phillie '9'

Roberts Hands Brooks Loss Again

NEW YORK, April 28—The one version of Mr. Roberts that the Brooklyn Dodgers do not care to see is the Philadelphia Story.

That would be Robin Roberts, the 23-year-old right-hander, who has developed a habit of beating the National League champions this season.

The bonus beauty from Michigan State college topped the Brooks opening day and yesterday he beat them again, 9 to 2, and broke their six-game winning streak.

Roberts, who wasn't able to beat the Dodgers once last year, although he garnered 15 victories against the rest of the league, now has gone far for the course against Bud Shotton's dandies.

The young pitcher received yeoman help from Willie Jones, who tagged a grand-slam homer off Preacher Roe in the opening inning.

George Munger helped stop the Murry Dickson jinx for the St. Louis Cardinals as he fashioned a neat six-hit, 5 to 2 win over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

THE REDBIRDS jumped on Dickson for four runs in the fifth inning of the night contest and drove the little right-hander from the hill.

Willard Marshall, the ex-New York Giant, was the main factor in the Boston Braves' 2 to 1 tenning win over the Durocher-men.

Marshall took four straight balls from Reliever Dave Koslo with the bases loaded in this frame to force in the winning run. Willard also drove in the first Boston tally with a single in the eighth.

Warren Spahn went all the way for the Braves, allowed six hits, scored both runs and won his third game in a row.

The Boston Red Sox downed the New York Yankees, 7 to 2, in a struggle of the American League giants.

Ellis Kinder, Boston's 23-game winner last season, won his first in three starts. The Sox victory left the world champions with a 3-2 edge in the season's play between the teams.

The Philadelphia Athletics rushed across four runs in the first inning off Joe Haynes and then coasted to a 4 to 3 win over the Washington Senators in a night game. Gil Coan hit a solo homer for the Nats. Bob Hooper, who relieved Starter Hank Wyse in the second, was credited with the win.

Cold weather postponed games between the Chicago White Sox and the St. Louis Browns and the Detroit Tigers and the Cleveland Indians in the American League, and the one between the Chicago Cubs and the Cincinnati Reds in the National.

Mile Pacing Mark May Fall

ARCADIA, Cal., April 28—The mile pacing mark at Santa Anita may go by the boards tomorrow when Dr. Stanton and Jerry The First match strides in the first free-for-all of the Western Harness Racing Association meeting.

Lindsay Fraser's Good Doctor holds the mile standard—2:00 1-5—at Santa Anita, while Eddie Cobb's Jerry The First is the defending champion in the forthcoming $50,000 Golden West Pace.

The pair will find plenty of competition from Guest Star, driven by Del Argo; Brother Harmony with Ken Carnal; Highland Ellen with Guy Crippen, and Stormyway, with Benny Schue.

Michigan Set To Hold Lead

CHICAGO, April 28—Michigan's Big Ten baseball leaders place their unbeaten record on the line today against Indiana in the first of a two-game series.

The Wolverines, rated out of the running in pre-season speculation, have won two victories in as many games.

In other conference tilts, Illinois visits Minnesota, Wisconsin is at Northwestern and Purdue at Iowa. Ohio State meets Michigan State in a non-league game.

Merchants Book Baseball Opener

Circleville Merchants baseball team will open its 1950 Tri-City League season at 2 p. m. Sunday in Ted Lewis Park against Etna.

The Merchants and Etna were scheduled to have met for the opener last Sunday but the game was called because of wet grounds.

NCAA Now Asking 390 Colleges About Possible Ban On Television

CHICAGO, April 28—The National Collegiate Athletic Association today branded television a threat to the "whole economic structure of athletics" and said it is investigating video's impact on collegiate sports.

A three-man NCAA committee on television sent 390 colleges and universities questionnaires as part of the probe.

The questionnaire issued by T. J. Hamilton of Pittsburgh university said that some formula must be created whereby TV would aid sports rather than menace their financial support. The letter continued:

"While your school may not feel any effect yet from the development of television, you will be involved very soon as the network spreads and will share the concern that has moved from the East to the Midwest and Pacific Coast already."

Schools already the questionnaire were asked to answer in the near future so plans could be made for next fall.

Approximately 50 institutions had their football games televised last year. But the Big Ten already has announced a ban on all "live" television for the 1950 season. Opposition to TV also has come from the Eastern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference and from Pacific Coast colleges and universities.

NOTRE DAME'S national champions, however, recently signed a contract to televise all their home games this year.

The NCAA television committee said its inquiry was a forerunner to other surveys planned for Fall. Members of the committee are Chairman Hamilton, Willis O. Hunter of Southern California and Ralph Furey of Columbia. This trio attended the meeting in which the Big Ten outlawed television.

The colleges and universities were asked whether they believed television increased or decreased attendance at football games and at other events.

CHAUNCEY BEATEN, 12-2

Tiger Baseballers Chalk Fifth Straight Victory

Circleville's high-flying Tiger baseball team Thursday kept its string of wins unblemished by swamping Chauncey Dover, 12-2, in Ted Lewis Park.

The Red and Black hardball team blasted out a total of 16 hits in the encounter to rack up its fifth win without a loss to date this season.

Circleville opened the contest by peppering six hits through the Chauncey infield, scoring four runs in the slugfest. The invaders were held to one hit in the initial stanza.

The Tigers continued to build their lead up to 8-0 going into the fourth inning. The Chauncey team tallied its first run of the game in the fourth. Circleville scored two in the fifth and Chauncey tallied another single in the sixth while the Tigers blasted in a brace of markers to finish scoring in the game.

SANDY HILL was credited with his second win of the season in the Thursday tilt, winning by allowing seven hits, walking none and fanning six. Dover's Wild Canter was charged with the loss.

Chauncey had sported a record of eight wins in nine starts prior to the Thursday shellacking.

Circleville's batting power supplied by Jerry Rooney, John

Valentine and Abe Rihl. Rooney connected for 1,000 percent in the contest by binging out four hits in as many trips to plate, while Valentine and Rihl tagged three hits in four trips to the batter.

The Tiger sluggers are scheduled to begin play in the Central District Class "A" hardball tournament at 4 p. m. Monday against Delaware Willis.

The game is to be played on the Columbus East high school field.

Circleville Cinder Team Cops Wins Over Hillsboro, Wilmington

Circleville high school track team scored its first 1950 cinder victory Thursday by whipping Hillsboro and Wilmington in a triangular match at Wilmington.

The CHS thincleds copped their first win by scoring 62 points in the Thursday meet—exactly the same number of points as Hillsboro and Wilmington were able to amass together.

Circleville posted a 62-34 win over the host Wilmington thincleds, while scoring a 62-28 victory over Hillsboro cindermen.

Tiger tracksters racked up eight first-place wins during the meet while scoring two parts of a three-way tie for another first with Hillsboro. Wilmington was second in wins with a total of three, while Hillsboro trailed with a total of only two.

TOM PHILLIPS, short distance runner for the Circleville squad, marked up three first-place wins during the meet, breaking the tape first in the 100-yd. dash, the 220-yd. low hurdles and the 220-yd. dash.

Lowell Thomas, long distance runner, scored first-place wins in both the mile and half-mile runs.

Next meet on tap for the Tigers is scheduled for Wednesday

Roy Funderburk Takes Over Doc Parshall's Job

CHICAGO, April 28—H. M. (Doc) Parshall, noted harness driver of Urbana, has resigned as head trainer of Hayes Fair Acres Stable in DuQuoin, Ill.

His resignation was announced by E. J. Hayes, owner of the stables, who said that Roy Funderburk of Springfield, Ill., will take over the post.

Parshall, who suffered a heart attack several months ago in California, gave "continued ill health" as the reason for his resignation.

Parshall shares driving honors in the nation with Sy Palm of Lexington, Ky., another widely-known Grand Circuit leader.

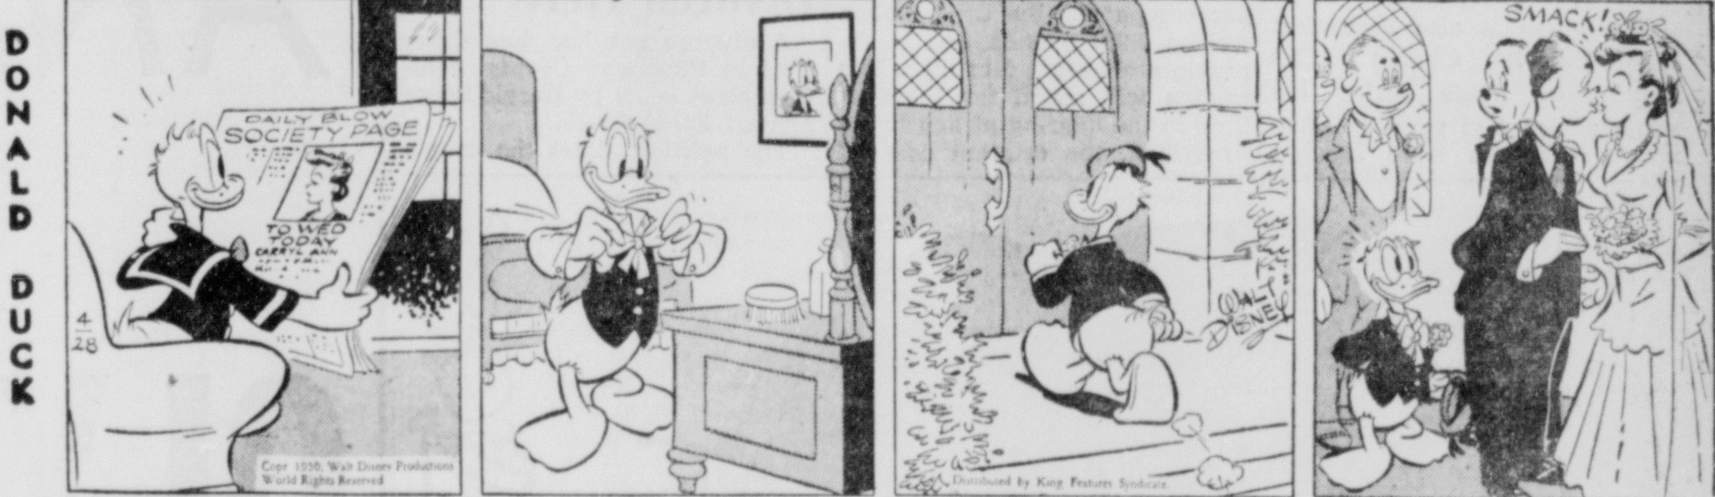

Funderburk will now take the reins of Lusty Song, favorite for the 1950 Hambletonian. He is a veteran of 30 years on the harness turf.

Independence Drive Bond Sale Quota Here Set At $70,000

Liberty Bell Replica Due For Showing

Judge Says Program To Start May 15

Judge William D. Radcliff, county Savings Bonds chairman, has announced that Pickaway County's quota in the forthcoming Independence Drive of the Treasury Department will be $70,000. The drive begins May 15 and runs through July 4.

The quota is considerably lower than the Opportunity Bond Drive quota of last year but the accounting period for this year's drive is shorter, last year's drive having run from April 1 through July 17.

The quota is also somewhat lower than the amount of E-Bond sales made during the same period last year but economic conditions have brought the general sales level down from last year's average.

Meanwhile preparations were begun for local promotion of the drive. The principal event will be the arrival and display of the full-size exact replica of America's Independence Bell which will tour the state beginning May 15. Although the itinerary has not yet been determined, the county chairman said the bell would begin its tour at Cincinnati.

Throughout the state elaborate preparations are being made for the visit of the replica which, according to bell experts, even duplicates exactly the tone of the Liberty Bell before it cracked.

OHIO'S BELL will be toured on a specially decorated truck and will be rung at the conclusion of each display stop. Judge Radcliff said the bell will appear here.

Contributed by six leading copper companies, the Ohio replica weighs 2,080 pounds and is approximately eight feet high. The replica will sound for the first time in the hearing of any living American, the original note of the national symbol of Independence.

Meanwhile as the state volunteer chairman, Loring L. Gelbach, announced that sales during the month of March totaled $19,087,039 as compared with $22,993,980 during the same month last year.

Pickaway County sales during March of this year totaled $60,731 as compared with $37,262 for March 1949, Judge Radcliff said.

"Labor unrest has caused much of the drop in sales statewide, according to state officials," the judge reported. "Some of these problems have worked themselves out and we all hope pending troubles will be settled. But it is apparent that extra effort by all Ohioans will be needed during this drive if we are going to establish a basis for individual savings that will insure our future financial security."

Husband Asks Divorce Here

A divorce petition has been filed in Pickaway County common pleas court by Harold Stage against Ethel Stage.

National FOE Chiefs Named In Law Suit

TOLEDO, April 28—A $1,275,000 libel suit has been brought against the Fraternal Order of Eagles and 12 officials by nine former members.

The suit, filed in federal court here late yesterday, grew out of a dispute in the Ottawa FOE aerie which began in 1939 and resulted in indictments last year married last Nov. 12 in Darbyville. They have no children. The wife is accused of gross neglect by the husband.

against four national FOE officers.

Charges brought against the officers ranged from blackmail to publicizing lotteries.

According to the nine former members, Mathew L. Brown, Springfield administrative director, tried to force the Ottawa group to dispose of its own slot machines, install others owned by Brown and pay him a percentage of receipts.

It is also alleged that Joseph A. Gunderman of St. Marys, deputy auditor and deputy grand president of the order, forced the Ottawa local to conduct lotteries, promote the sale of Eagles life insurance and purchase fixtures from firms dominated by Brown and the National FOE. The Ottawa chapter voted last February to disaffiliate.

Tax Is Set Up On Betts Estate In Court Here

A determination of inheritance tax on the Charles A. Betts estate has been filed in Pickaway County probate court.

On successions of $22,399.96 each Shirley A. Betts and George H. Betts, sons, are required to pay $189 tax each.

Also in probate court Judge George D. Young has authorized Benjamin Miller, trustee under the will of George M. Zwyer, to deposit securities in Citizens Bank of Ashville in lieu of

Divorces Given To 2 Wives

Two divorces have been granted in Pickaway County common pleas court by Judge William D. Radcliff.

Bonita H. Boggs has been granted a divorce from Robert C. Boggs. The husband was found guilty of gross neglect. The wife's former name, Bonita Hill, was restored.

Second divorce was granted to bond for a trust created by the Zwyer will.

Judge Young also authorized Miller, as executor of the Zwyer estate, to withdraw the securities, totalling $138,916.93, in order to settle the estate.

Doris J. Cupp from D. Malcolm Cupp. The husband was found guilty of gross neglect. Custody of the couple's one child was granted to the wife, with the husband being given the right to visit.
